Building Boom in Township Will Put At Least 125 New Homes on Tax Map

A building boom in Princeton Township will put at least 125 new residential lots on the 1986 tax map.

The new lots are all the result of Planning Board subdivision approvals, and have also received a host of other approvals, including sewer extension permission. According to Tax Assessor Carol Caskey, the final agency to "sign on" — put its signature of approval — to the corner of a subdivision map is the Mercer County Planning Board. If the county signs a particular subdivision development by October 1, the newly created lots may be added to the tax map for the next year.

Whether located in subdivisions of 20 to 60 homes, or on individual lots, the rush seems to be for three and four-bedroom homes in the $400,000 price range. When Toll Brothers, a Philadelphia-area quality developer offering its own standard models in a variety of finishes, held an open house to initiate sales on 29 single-family homes between Mercer and Stockton Streets, the sales manager had her hands full coping with the ensuing stampede.

"It was like those cartoons you see of women knocking each other over at a sales counter in Macy's or Gimbels," said Sales Manager Joan Novak. Working in a handsomely appointed trailer-office, in which the eight different exteriors and four layouts were graphically displayed, Ms. Novak said she could have sold the entire 29-unit development that day — and without even a model home through which prospective buyers could walk.

She sewed up agreements on six homes off Mercer Road at prices ranging from $406,00 to $450,00 and had 35 "back-ups" for the remaining 23 homes. The company has since instituted a six percent price increase, but interest continues strong.

Most of the prospective purchasers are from Princeton and Lawrenceville, Ms. Novak says, although one man, from Virginia, was sleeping in his car outside her trailer-office to be at the head of the line when she arrived at 7:30 that Saturday morning.

One woman all but threw a $300 deposit at her, Ms. Novak reports. The non-refundable deposit guarantees nothing more than a phone call from Ms. Novak, who will alert the prospective purchaser to possible further price increases and the fact that he or she may not be able to have the model home he or she wants on the lot he or she has specified.

Toll Brothers prides itself on quality construction and seeks to create a custom-built atmosphere in its developments. Ms. Novak says the "Newport Contemporary" is the most popular model, but in order to create what she calls "a nice mosaic of beautiful homes for Princeton," the developer places limits on any one model in order to sprinkle it among the "Bainbridge" or "Richmond" series and to vary the exterior siding.

"Heatherstone," as the Toll Brothers' first development in Princeton is called, shares certain characteristics with other developments that are responsible for the new lots on the Township map. Like Brooks Bend, Princeton architect Michael Giordino's development with his father on Pretty Brook Road, and like Russell Estates off Edgerstoune Road, it has been carved out of land surrounding one of Princeton's larger estates.

Republicans Now Control All Five Committee Seats

Political newcomer Carol Wojciechowicz, a Republican, upset incumbent Democrat Barbara Cantrill by a 268-vote margin in Tuesday's election day balloting, to gain a seat on Township Committee come January 1.

The Republican victory in the contest for the the single seat removes the lone Democrat on the five-member committee and puts one-party rule in charge of Township municipal affairs. Excited and pleased by the results, Mrs. Wojciechowicz said it was a "wonderful, wonderful feeling to win. The hard work of the Republican team paid off. I am very excited to get on Committee and start to work."

The total tally gave Mrs. Wojciechowicz 2,120 votes to 1,852 for her opponent. Mrs. Cantrill led in eight of the 14 Township voting districts, but the margins racked up by Mrs. Wojciechowicz in five districts and the absentee totals were greater.

Mrs Cantrill's biggest margin was in the Birch Avenue-Henry Avenue District 1, but she also won districts in traditionally Democratic areas

Lone Republican on Council Leads All Candidates in Race

Republican Dick Woodbridge and Democrat Mark Freda are the winners in the race for Princeton Borough Council. Mr. Woodbridge, who will serve his fourth term on Council, led the field with 1322 votes. He will continue to be the lone Republican on Council.

Mr. Freda proved himself a formidable newcomer to Borough politics. He came in second, behind Mr. Woodbridge, with 1217 votes.

Running for re-election to Council after a one-year hiatus, Peter Bearse received 1172 votes, 45 votes fewer than his Democratic running mate.

Newcomer Kathy Bagley tallied 987 votes.

Mr. Woodbridge ran strongest in Districts 8 (the Western

Developer Michael Giordino Buys Italian-American Sportsmen Club

Michael Giordino, architect-turned-developer, has signed a contract to purchase the Italian-American Sportsmen Club on Terhune Road.

The agreed-upon sale price for the 8,400-square foot one-story building and 20 acres of land is reported to be $2.1 million. The tract lies in the office-research zone, and Mr. Giordino, who is currently developing Brooks Bend off Pretty Brook Road as a residential subdivision, is understood to be planning to use the property for office-research purposes.

Mr. Giordino was not available for comment as TOWN TOPICS went to press, but Peyton Realtors, who represented the Club on this sale and was the exclusive sales agent for Brooks Bend, confirmed that the property was under contract as did Joe Toto, Italian-American Sportsmen president

According to realtors and Club members, the Italian-American Sportsmen have had their building on the market for several years. Faced with declining membership and a struggle to meet taxes and other costs, the Club has entertained — and rejected — in which graduate student and faculty housing is located. Mrs. Wojciechowicz ran strongest in her own Herrontown Road district and in the Brookstone Pretty Book Road area. The two women tied, 161 votes apiece, in the Littlebrook-Rollingmead District 5.

The mood around the Township scoreboard in Republican headquarters was jubilant, and cheers went up at each new posting. Fifty-five minutes after the polls closed it was clear that Mrs. Wojciechowicz had won by at least 250 votes, and the chant by which the candidate had made her complicated name known through simple phonics swept through the crowd.

Slightly more than 4,000 Township voters went to the polls, less than half the 9,255 who are registered. They voted 2,532 to 1,334 votes for his Democratic opponent to return Republican Governor Thomas H. Kean to a second term in office. In contrast to the Borough vote, they gave Republican candidates for Assembly Mary Ann McKee and Republican Barbara Marrow more votes than the Democratic incumbents, John S. Watson and Gerard S. Naples.

Township resident Kate Litvak, a Democrat, edged out the Republican incumbent Albert E. Driver Jr. by only 220 votes in Township voting. Republican challengers for the County Board of Chosen Freeholders also received endorsement over the Democratic incumbents.

Township voters also said 'yes' by an overwhelming margin to the question asking whether a limitation should be placed on the power of the courts to require municipal zoning changes to accomodate Mt. Laurel housing. The question was at the bottom of Township ballots but not on those in Borough polling places.

Question 7 dealt with a constitutional amendment on legislative disapproval of rules and regulations and would have constituted a fundamental change in the relationship between the branches of state government.

Of the 6,524 registered voters in the Borough, 2,480 went to the polls. This is about a 38 percent turnout. Last year, with races for the United States Senate and Congress on the ballot, there was a 70 percent turnout in the Borough.

section), 9 (Jugtown), and 10 (Mercer Hill.) In his own District 2, however, he received 67 votes to Mr. Bearse's 116 and Mr. Freda's 111. District 2 contains many Princeton University faculty.

Mr. Freda did especially well in his own district, 3, and also in Districts 4, 5, and 6. District 6 includes the Witherspoon-Jackson neighborhood and Stanworth.

Borough Goes for Kean. The normally Democratic Borough reversed itself and went heavily for Governor Tom Kean. He received 1336 votes to 928 for his Democratic opponent Peter Shapiro.

Incumbent Democratic Assemblymen John Watson and Gerard Naples were Borough victors. Mr. Watson led the field with 1215 votes, followed by Mr. Naples with 1136 and Republicans Marrow and McKee, with 1066 and 1012 votes respectively.

In her race for County Clerk, Township resident Kate Litvack polled 1266 votes to her opponent's 874.

The Democratic candidates for freeholder were victorious in the Borough. Candidates Cimino, Palmer and Sollami pulled, respectively, 1204, 1191, and 1151 votes to Republicans Inverso, Cipriano and Furlong with 955, 931 and 921.

Questions 6 and 7 were soundly defeated in the Borough. No. 6 said that the Casino Revenue Fund should not be used to finance homestead rebates after June 30, 1985, for senior citizens and disabled residents.

Who Will Pay for Repair of Sewer Laterals? Borough Will Hear PSOC Recommendations

Who will pay for the repair and replacement of private sewer laterals is scheduled to be discussed at the Tuesday, November 12, meeting of Borough Council.

Borough Councilman Marvin Reed will submit a proposal from the Princeton Sewer Operating Committee (PSOC) which recommends that homeowners pay for the repair of cracked laterals that run from their homes to the curb, and that the PSOC pick up the expense from the curb to the mid-street sewer main.

What's a Lateral? What are laterals and why will many need to be replaced?

They are underground pipes that carry waste water from the home into the sewer main and then into the sewer trunk line. The sewage then goes into the Stony Brook Processing plant. But cracked or broken laterals absorb a considerable amount of ground water, something sewer buffs call Infiltration/Inflow (I/I).

This ground water then gets carried along to the processing plant, where it gets processed just as if it were a product of the sanitary sewer system.

Some towns, said Borough Councilman Marvin Reed, never solve this problem. They keep enlarging their processing plant in order to treat more and more water.

The Council liaison to the PSOC, Mr. Reed stated that if we reduce I/I, we would reduce the demand on Stony Brook and reduce charges to taxpayers.

A PSOC memo to Township and Borough governing bodies states that much evidence indicates that the private contributions of I/I in the Princeton system are significant.

Mr. Reed said that sewer repair in Princeton would probably reach its second stage within the next 12 months. The first stage was the repair of main trunk lines, such as Harry's Brook; the second is the repair of sewer mains beneath individual streets. The third stage, he said, would focus on laterals.

This third stage evolves logically from the second — repair of sewer mains will permit TV cameras to inspect laterals house to house.

"Ultimately every street will be tested, checked, and inspected," said Mr. Reed. "Priorities will be those with the highest level of ground water and streets scheduled for repaving."

He said that it is hard to tell now what percentage of laterals will need to be replaced, or what the cost to homeowners will be. A very early cost estimate contained in the PSOC memo is $1,000-$4,000.

If that option is refused, all the laterals in need of repair in a neighborhood will be done by the PSOC under a single low-bid contract and home owners will be billed.

Mr. Reed spoke of permitting home owners to pay the cost of lateral repair over, perhaps, a five-year period. He also mentioned that the Borough or the PSOC can borrow money at low rates, thus helping ease cost the cost of borrowing.

He plans to look into whether Neighborhood Preservation monies can be used for lateral repair and if any state or county funds might be available for this purpose.

Gail Firestone, Mr. Reed's Township counterpart on the PSOC, is expected to be present at the November 12 meeting, which is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.. Mr. Reed plans to be at Township Committee when the subject of laterals is to be discussed.

"As much as possible," he said, "the two municipalities will act in concert on this."

Time to Pay. In addition to recommending that the Borough and Township adopt a policy whereby the homeowner pays for repair or replacement of the lateral to the curb and the PSOC pays for it in the street, the PSOC also recommends giving the home- owner first option to make the repair himself.

CENTER DROPS SUIT

To Lower Assessment. The Princeton Shopping Center's new owners, George Comfort & Sons, have decided not to pursue their attempt to have their property taxes reduced through court action.

The Shopping Center had filed a claim in the Tax Court of New Jersey for a reduction in the Township's 1985 assessment of $6,132,200 for land and buildings. According to Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer, the Township had filed an answer to this suit and a counter-claim seeking to increase the assessment. The Township, as part of its defense, also filed a series of questions asking why the plaintiff thought the assessment was too high.

After discussions between the attorneys for both sides, the Shopping Center management evidently decided the present assessment was reasonable, Mr. Schmierer says, and decided not to pursue the matter further. A "stipulation of dismissal" of the suit is presently being circulated, he added.

COMMUNIST TO SPEAK

On University Campus. Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party USA, will be the guest of the American Whig-Cliosophic Society of Princeton University Thursday at 8.

Mr. Hall has been general secretary of the Communist Party USA since 1959. He has three times run as the Communist Party's candidate for president of the United States.

The editor of Political Affairs, the magazine of the Communist Party, Mr. Hall is the author of many book, pamphlets and articles. A militant trade unionist since he went to work in Minnesota logging camps in 1926 at the age of 16, he was a prime mover in the organization of the Steel Workers Union in the 1930's. He was one of the leaders of the "Little Steel Strike" of 1937.

Mr. Hall served eight years in prison for his leadership role in the Communist Party, having been sentenced under the Smith Act in 1951. He will address "Obstacles on the Path to the Reagan-Gorbachev Summit." Written questions on the topic of the speech or about the Communist Party USA will be welcomed afterward.

The public is welcome to the lecture which will be held in the Whig Hall lounge on the University campus.

COMPUTER IS STOLEN

From 20 Nassau Office. An Apple computer system consisting of a computer, image printer, disc drive and modem, valued at $2,827, was stolen last week from an office in the 20 Nassau Building.

According to Capt. John J. Bellow, the intruder first used a broom handle to smash a window in an office door. After reaching in to open the door to get inside, he then forced a second door to enter a storage room.

Office equipment in adjoining offices was not disturbed. Police placed the entry between 12:20 and 8:07 Saturday morning.

During the same time period, another office in the same building was entered but, police report, apparently nothing was taken or disturbed.

The office front door had been forced open, damaging the door jamb.

Three student rooms were entered last week on three separate campuses.

On Monday, a student at the Westminster Choir College told police that her room in Seabrook Hall had been entered during the two weeks she had been at her home in New York. Missing are two rings and a gold bracelet valued at $282, and six sweaters and a blouse.

A student left her room in Alexander Hall on the Princeton Seminary campus unlocked and unattended for a brief period; on her return, she saw a man standing in the hallway next to her door. She later described him to police as a black, about 6-3, approximately 30 years old, neat in apperance and wearing a three-piece ivory suit.

SCIENCE SERIES RESUMES: The Princeton Day School series of Saturday talks and activities on scientific subjects for elementary grade children will take up the topic of "The Human Body" this Saturday. There will be talks at 1 and 3:30, and lots of craft activities in between, planned by Sharon Sciallí, left, and Sheila Pastore. David Levin plans to attend.

In checking her room, she discovered that $12 in cash and $2 in change had been taken from a wallet in her desk drawer.

During the 15-minute period in which a student in 1901 Hall on the Princeton University campus left her first-floor room to take a shower on the second floor, someone entered her unlocked room and stole two jewelry boxes.

The victim lost assorted earrings, bracelets and pins with a combined value of $310.

Watch, Wallet Taken. An employee's Swiss watch and wallet were stolen Monday from the kitchen area of the Athenian Restaurant, 25 Witherspoon Street.

The owner told police that he and an employee had been working in the basement and as they came upstairs to enter the kitchen from an outside door, they saw a black male walking out.

To their question of "What are you doing?" the suspect replied that he was looking for a job. They told him to wait but the suspect fled as soon as the two went inside, police said.

He was described as being 5-8 or 5-9, medium build, wearing a brown corduroy waist-length coat.

Home Ransacked. A home on Ewing Street was entered and ransacked Friday between 8:40 in the morning and shortly after noon, while the owner was away.

A first-floor bedroom yielded jewelry, clothing and a check book, police said. A color TV set was taken from the living room and silver and crystal from the kitchen. The upstairs rooms also had signs of being disturbed.

Police said a pane of glass in a front door had been broken to allow the intruder to reach in and unlock it.

An attempt to enter a Franklin Avenue home last week failed when the victim, about to fall asleep, police said, heard the sound of glass breaking in the bathroom.

Investigating, he saw, outside the window, the head of a man, who then ran off. Police said the suspect had cut a storm screen and had smashed the window in trying to get inside. The only description the owner was able provide to the police was that the suspect had short hair.

Dennis McManimon spied John Madden driving on Witherspoon Street Sunday evening, they saw a motor vehicle violation in progress: both knew that the 34-year-old Madden was on the revoked list.

They stopped his car as it turned into Quarry Street. Then, while the officers waited for a computer check to verify that Madden was operating while revoked, the officer observed him lean over and whisper something to his passenger. At the same time he removed a tin foil wrapper from his pocket and handed it to the passenger.

The police officers confiscated the wrapper which contained green vegetation believed to be marijuana. The officers also reported detecting an odor of PCP in the vegetation.

The Green Street resident was taken to headquarters and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana laced with PCP) and driving while on a revoked list. Later released, Madden faces a November 20 hearing in Borough court.

Fugitive Caught. A 20-year-old resident of Lapeer, Mich. was arrested last week by Borough police who later charged him with being a fugitive.

Christopher Moores was observed by Det. Randy Sutton sitting on a bicycle on Palmer Square West for more than 45 minutes across from the Palmer Square apartment occupied, police said, by Brooke Shields. Because Det. Sutton had observed the suspect loitering in the same area on previous days he stopped and questioned him.

A computer check came back a 'hit', revealing that Moores was wanted in Dallas, Tex., on an active warrant charging him with burglary.

He was taken to Borough police headquarters and later released to his attorney after his bail of 10 percent of $10,000, set by a Superior Court Judge in Trenton, was paid.

One Swig Too Many. Twenty-year-old Todd R. O'Neil of Shirley Lane, Lawrenceville was walking on Spring Street at 8:40 in the evening last week with a companion. What he didn't know is that he was being observed by Det. William Nathan who saw him remove a can of beer from under his jacket, take a swig and then conceal it again.

O'Neil was taken to headquarters where he was charged with possession of alcohol by a minor and later released. He is scheduled for a November 20 court hearing.

THIEF'S DELIGHT

Car with Radar Detector. If the thefts keep up, a more common greeting in Princeton than "How are you?" might be, "Wanna buy a radar detector?"

Five more were taken last week — four in the Township. Between 2:45 and 4:15 last Wednesday afternoon, two $300 Passport radar detectors were stolen from two Porsches parked in the 601 Ewing Street business lot. In each instance, a window had been smashed to enter the car. The victims are residents of Rosedale Road and Princeton Junction.

The following evening, a $295 radar detector was taken from the 1983 Mercedes of a Plainsboro resident — again the car was parked in the same lot and a window was smashed to gain entry — and the previous day a right rear door window was broken to steal a $295 radar unit from the 1985 Buick of a Ewing resident. Police report it was parked between 3 and 5 p.m. in a rear business lot off Harrison Street not far from the lot on Ewing.

During a 15-minute period last week, while a 1985 Audi owned by a Kendall Park resident was parked in the Community Park South lot, someone removed a radio from the dash and two rear speakers, with a combined worth of $1,700. There were no signs of forced entry into the locked car.

A Moran Avenue resident was the victim of the one radar detector theft reported in the Borough. While his 1985 BMW was parked overnight on the north side of the St. Paul's Church lot, someone broke out the right rear window and removed his radar unit valued at $295.

A VCR was stolen from a locked storeroom in the Chambers Street parking garage between 3 Saturday afternoon and 1:30 Sunday morning (there was no forced entry), and four pushbutton telephones valued at $41 each are missing from an unlocked room in No. 3 Firehouse Building at 16 Chambers Street.

Borough police report the victim leases space in the building and the phones were taken between June 2 and October 26.

A quick-acting thief last week took advantage of a Trenton resident unloading groceries from a shopping cart into her car parked in the lot behind Davidson's Market.

Police report the victim had left her purse unattended in the cart and when she returned from her car her pocketbook was missing. She lost her grey vinyl purse, $10 cash, credit cards and checks with a combined value of $362.

A box containing household items valued at $2,585 is missing from a Philip Drive home.

According to Township police, the box had been stored in the basement while renovations were being made between August and October 25 when the theft was discovered. There are no suspects.

METERS ARE SPRAYED With White Paint. The windows of 27 Borough parking meters on Prospect Avenue were sprayed last week with a white enamel paint. Also included; one traffic sign.

In another act of vandalism, a Hopewell resident told police that the left rear tire of her 1974 BMW had been cut while it was parked for two hours Thursday evening in the Tulane Street lot.

On Sunday, four days after mischief night, while his 1984 rental car was parked in front of 235 Prospect Avenue, a Monmouth Junction resident told police, vandals had thrown a pumpkin against the windshield, smashing it and requiring his car to be towed. Police report no witnesses to the incident which took place between 9:30 and 11:45 p.m.

BRIDGE IS SITE Of Another Accident. The Stony Brook Bridge on Mercer Road was the site of another car mishap last week, leaving the driver and a passenger with injuries.

The driver, 17-year-old David Dorse, 44 Van Wyck Drive, Princeton Junction, told police that he misjudged the turn as he approached the bridge around 9:30 Sunday night. He braked hard, causing his car to skid into an abutment.

Both Mr. Dorse, who sustained head lacerations, and his passenger, Michael Switzer, 15, of Princeton Junction, who suffered leg injuries, were treated at Princeton Medical Center.

No police summons was issued but Mr. Dorse's VW Rabbit was judged a total loss.

Pedestrian Sandwiched. A Princeton resident was sandwiched last week between the rear bumper of a van and the front bumper of a car behind as she attempted to cross Nassau Street at the intersection of Witherspoon Street.

Chris J. Closson, 28, 774 Mayflower Avenue, Lawrenceville, driver of a cube van, told Ptl. Ralph Terracciano that he was stopped for the light and had backed up about two feet to allow a vehicle to turn in front of him.

As he backed up, he struck Zuzana Gierich, 35, of 48 Nassau Street, with his rear bumper.

Ms. Gierich was treated at

Mischief Night Quiet — Again

For another year, mischief night in Princeton was quiet — almost uneventful — and police here hope the streak continues.

Borough police report only one incident: an egg was thrown at the front door of a South Stanworth apartment. It penetrated a wire screen door before smashing against an inner wooden door.

"We had special officers in the area but they did not see anyone," said Capt. John Bellow.

"We had a very good evening. Of course we had a lot of cops out there which may be one reason why, but it has slacked off in recent years," Capt. Bellow concluded.

"It was quiet as far as we're concerned," echoed Capt. Jack Petrone in the Township. "Outside of a couple of isolated incidents, it was very quiet. Not even soap on the windows."

Like the Borough police, Township police had extra patrols and extra cars out, which may have helped keep the mischief down. "The last three or four years it's been very quiet — and we don't have a curfew," said Capt. Petrone, noting the same downward trend.

DRIVER LOSES LICENSE

For Drunken Driving. In a special session of Township Court last week, Christopher P. Grace, 512 Blue Spring Road, had his license revoked for six months for driving while intoxicated.

In addition, Mr. Grace was fined $265 plus a $100 surcharge and sentenced by Judge Sydney Souter to 12 hours in the Intoxicated Drivers Resource Center.

SCHOOL IS DEDICATED

On Cherry Valley Road. Princeton Montessori School held dedication ceremonies for its new school recently.

More than 400 people, including alumni and families of children currently enrolled in the school, attended the ceremonies and picnic supper held at the new school, located at 487 Cherry Valley Road in Montgomery Township.

Addressing the gathering, Gail Westgate, director of the school said, "We wish to thank those township officials, tradesmen, professionals, bankers, and friends who made this building a reality. Their energy, creativity and labor have made us a beautiful house for children."

The new school, situated on a 14-acre site overlooking the Hopewell Valley, is the first building especially designed for Montessori education in central New Jersey. The new building is a modern, 11,500 square foot, one-story gabled structure with vaulted ceilings and extensive windows. It contains six classrooms, in addition to a design studio, a parent conference room, an auditorium/all purpose room, and offices.

Each classroom opens on the rural outdoor setting to allow for extended exploration of natural sciences at each grade level. In the three to six year old primary group this includes such activities as gardening and the care of small animals, and the patios allow classwork outside in a protected area.

The 14 acres surrounding the school have been designed as an educational and sense-expanding environment. In addition to herb and flower gardens, a pond and wild life habitat, orchard and berry patch, arboretum grove and picnic meadow are planned.

Founded in 1968 by a small group of parents and teachers, Princeton Montessori School now has an enrollment of 150 students drawn from 16 communities in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

NO TURN ON RED

At Robeson-Bayard. The State Department of Transportation has assured Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund that it will shortly place a "No right turn on red" sign at the corner of Paul Robeson Place and Bayard Lane. The sign will prohibit right turns from Paul Robeson onto Bayard Lane between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

This action is in response to repeated requests for such a sign from parents whose children have to cross this intersection going to and from school.

150-SPACE LOT

Set for Dinky Station. Princeton University will construct a 150-car commuter parking lot between the Dinky train tracks and Alexander Street. Completion date is the summer of 1986. The University purchased the station from New Jersey Transit this past October.

Plans for the lot must first be submitted to New Jersey Transit for approval. They will then be taken to the Princeton Regional Planning Board for review.

The new lot would be located on Alexander Street behind several University-owned buildings and would continue along the edge of the track.

The University is also planning some renovation of the sidewalks along University Place and of the Dinky platform.

HEAR JUSTICE WRIGHT

At Borough Hall. The Princeton Joint Commission on Civil Rights will sponsor a talk by Justice Bruce McM. Wright of the New York Supreme Court on Monday, November 18, at 8 p.m. at Borough Hall.

Justice Wright was born and raised in Princeton and graduated from Princeton High School in 1936. He received his Bachelor's Degree from Fordham and his law degree from New York Law School.

In the 60's, Mayor Lindsay appointed him Judge of the Criminal Court of the City of New York. He received national attention because of his concern for the rights of the accused and defense of constitutional rights.

This past year, Justice Wright granted an injunction requested by students at Columbia University barring the use of violence to disperse anti

Do You Really Know Where Your Children Are? Maybe They Were "Guests" at This "Party"

Two recent articles in TOWN TOPICS focused on teenage use of alcohol and drugs The first outlined new and harsher penalties for Princeton Regional School students found with these substances.

The second focused on two Princeton women — Loy Ann Carrington and Polly Miller — who helped guide to passage a new law that mahes it illegal for adults to serve drinks to anyone who is under the legal drinking age except their own child or close relative.

The piece that follows was written by a Township couple who experienced in their own lives — and to their great distress — the results of an unsupervised porty late last month where alcohol, and possibly drugs, were available to teenagers.

The couple have been colling the parents of those who were at the party to tell them whot happened the night their child was "ot a party." To their surprise, nobody seems surprised. Rather, they're often told, "This happened to me, too," or "The same thing happened on our street."

We want to share our concern with our friends and neighbors, and especially with other parents. We went away for a Parents' Weekend in October and left our younger children with parents of friends. We left our itinerary, medical permissions and the lights on timers. We locked our house.

While we were gone, one of our children came back to the house and had a party. Some of your children were there. We know this because an observant and thoughtful neighbor called the police. We'd like to thank them. But by the time the police were called more than 100 kids had gone in and out of our house — perhaps a lot more. Someone brought kegs and there were lots of beer bottles. We don't know what else was brought in — we don't drink or use other drugs ourselves — but we wouldn't be surprised if beer wasn't the only illegal substance available that night. What started out as a small party of 10 or 12 got out of control.

We knew our child did not have the mature judgment or experience to handle such a situation. We've heard of similar things happening at your houses when you are away. Where did 200 parents, step-parents, grandparents, think their kids were that night? Some of you dropped your children off — at an empty and unoccupied house to wait with the kids already gathered on the lawn, waiting for the party to start. You work with kids — you seemed surprised when I told you we don't serve alcohol to underage teenagers. I understand that you do

Many of the kids who were our "guests" are names we recognize We've known them from nursery school or from church — we've given them rides from lacrosse and cheered them in baseball — we babysat for a couple when they were younger One stayed with us while working out a problem

Their parents are teachers and doctors and therapists and clergy and they live in every part of this town. We've worked together on projects in the community and say hello when we pass on Nassau Street. Your kids are in every class at the high school and Princeton Day School, and a few are in the eighth grade.

There are also some other names on the list — names we've heard, some of whom are associated with drugs who have a business going on. Some of them are classmates, but some of the people your kids were with that night are older. We understand that some of the kids got in over their heads and were scared. For the most part, this party was business as usual. Did your child "get away with something" at our house? Next time will they be so lucky?

We thought we'd made arrangements so that our child was safe — from temptation, from peer pressure, from their own inexperience, from situations such as this. We thought that your child was safe too. Thank God no one was seriously hurt. We do think that everyone was hurt, however — in loss of respect, by the considerable damage done to our property, and by the promotion of a 'who cares' attitude.

If a tragedy had occurred, we would have been legally responsible. But, ultimately, the result of the the tragedy would be yours to bear also, and all the money in the world wouldn't replace a limb or a life. We apologize to those of you we do not know and will not be able to respond to personally. We thought we'd done enough. Next time we'll do more. Perhaps some of you can learn from our experience.

Not one parent called to ask if we expected their child — all the messages on our machine that night were from kids. If our network was more open, more responsible, more communicative, we might protect some of our kids who are at risk in these situaitons. Morally, as well as legally, we all stand to benefit.

The party goes on. Do you really know where your children are? Let's call and find out.

RENOVATED ROOMS

And New Exhibition. The Historical Society is taking a fresh look at two period rooms in its 18th-century headquarters, Bainbridge House.

A generous loan by The Art Museum, Princeton University, of furniture, china, silver and other accessories associated with Elias Boudinot IV and his family, has provided the impetus for the re-interpretation of a parlor and adjoining dining room. The rooms will reflect the lifestyle and neoclassical taste of Boudinot and his upper-middle-class contemporaries during the early Federal period.

Boudinot, born in Philadelphia in 1740, was a respected figure in the events of the Revolution and Early Republic. Apprenticed in the Princeton law office of Richard Stockton, he married Richard's sister Hannah, and bought property along Nassau Street in the approximate location of the present-day kiosk, before moving to Elizabeth and distinguishing himself as commissary general of prisoners during the Revolution.

The new exhibition, entitled Elias Boudinot, At Home in the Early Republic, will open with a special preview party for members on November 10 from 4 to 6 p.m. The exhibition is planned to expand the interpretation of the newly-renovated parlor and dining room.

The domestic life of the upper middle class during the years immediately following the adoption of the United States Constitution in 1789 is the focus of the exhibit, which will feature costumes lent by two Boudinot descendants, as well as objects from the Art Museum. R. Rennie Atterbury III has provided a three-piece linen suit that belonged to his ancestor, Elisha Boudinot (Elias' brother).

The suit is a rare example of everyday men's clothing, dating from the 1780's. It is in excellent condition and was exhibited at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in 1981 as part of the "18th Century Woman" show.

Mrs. John F. Kerry has lent an 18th-century gown that has passed through Bodinot descendants for 200 years, and has been worn by a succession of family brides. Mrs. Kerry was the last to use the gown when she wore it at her own wedding in the 1970's.

Additional objects have been borrowed from the Monmouth County Historical Association and Boxwood Hall, the Boudinot residence in Elizabeth. The list of loans also includes a deed signed by both Elias Boudinot and his wife Hannah. Robert Dello Russo of Westfield is the owner of the document which will be exhibited publicly here for the first time.

The Historical Society's museum is open Tuesday through Sunday from 12 to 4. Admission is free.

With the support of a grant from the New Jersey Committee for the Humanities, the Historical Society will present a lecture series titled Bringing History to Life: New Approoches to Documenting and Interpreting Period Rooms. The grant wil provide 50 percent of the budget for the series.

The program will feature three distinguished speakers: Charles Dorman, curator emeritus, Independence National Historical Park; Cheryl Robertson, program coordinatar, Interpretive Staff Education, Winterthur Museum; and Gretchen Schneider, cultural historian of expressive behavior and performance. All three events will be held at 8 p.m. in McCormick Hall at the Princeton University Art Museum and will be free and open to the public.

The first lecture, Clothing the Bones of History: Furnishing Plans for the Federol House, by Mr. Darman, will be given on Thursday, November 14. Mr. Dorman's many achievements include the development of the furnishing plan for the Bishop White house in Philadelphia. He will explore the ways in which Americans used and arranged their rooms during the years of the Early Republic.

For more information call 921-6748.

ARMS CONTROL TOPIC

Of Talk on Campus. Robert M. Sherman, staff member to the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, will give a talk entitled "Military Security through Arms Control," on Sunday at 8 in the Woodrow Wilson School Auditorium of Princeton University. His talk will emphasize the role of Congress in arms control.

Mr. Sherman, a Congressional staff member since 1968, has published more than 30 articles on military policy and arms control in a wide range of journals and newspapers including the Progressive magazine, the New York Times and the Armed Forces Journal. He has written major portions of key legislation on nuclear weapons policy, including the Nuclear Freeze resolution which passed the House in 1983.

Mr. Sherman will argue that a ban on the flight-testing of new ballistic missiles would be the best way to prevent a surprise attack. He will also discuss the danger that space weapons like 'Star Wars' and anti-satellite weapons could make nuclear war more likely.

Mr. Sherman's lecture is sponsored by PARAR, the Princeton Alliance to Reverse the Arms Race, the Princeton University chapter of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament.

Houstoun Jr., principal of The Atlantic Group, an urban development consulting firm in Cranbury, former assistant to the secretary, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and former assistant to the U.S. Secretary of Commerce;

The Hon. Alan J. Karcher, speaker of the New Jersey General Assembly and author of the Central Corridor District Development Bill.; and William H. Whyte, author of Is Anybody Listening?, The Organizotion Man, and The Social Life of Smoll Urban Spaces.

Tickets may be reserved by calling Mrs. R. Dixon Hayes, 683-1049, or Mrs. Eleanor Lippincott, 924-3570. Cost is $25 for the symposium only and $50 for the symposium and cocktail reception.

GET YOUR PECANS

And Oranges Too. The Princeton Area Smith College Club is conducting its annual pecan sale, with proceeds going toward scholarships.

In another fund-raising effort — this time with the emphasis on citros — the Princeton Chapter of AFS is selling Texas Reds grapefruit and Texas juice oranges to raise money for student exchange scholarships.

The pecans are $5 a pound, $1.50 of which is tax deductible. They can be purchased by calling 924-3074, 737-0864, 799-4727, or 896-1591.

The cost is $10 per carton for the grapefruit (18-20 fruit) and $11 per carton for the oranges (40-50 fruit). Tax deductible contribution is $2.50 per carton.

To order, send a check payable to "AFS Princeton" to Mel Bolick, 96 Herrontown Road, Princeton, N.J. 08540. Orders should be received by November 15 and the fruit may be picked up at Princeton High School on or about December 10.

ANIMALS AND BIRDS

Programs for Pre-Schoolers. The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association has scheduled two programs for children ages 3 to 5 on Wednesday, November 13, at 1 p.m.

Robert Darnton

The one-hour Animal Adventures Program will include a short walk to look for signs of animals on the Watershed Association's Nature Reserve.

After walking outdoors, the children will enjoy a close look at some live animals and learn about the adaptations that help them survive.

The hour-long Bird Feeder Program will introduce children to birds and bird-watching. They will then be able to make their own bird feeders for use at home.

Interested participants must be registered and there is a small fee for non-members. For registration or additional information, call the Watershed Association at 737-3735.

TOY AND CRAFT FESTIVAL

Set for November 13. The Sixth Annual Toy and Craft Festival, sponsored by the Family Resource Infant Center, will be held on Wednesday, November 13, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the center, which is located in the Princeton United Methodist Church.

Available will be toys, books, records and crafts, many not in toy stores. Child care will be available at $1 per half hour per child. For further information, call 924-2167 or 896-0891.

A panel of readers will present works including Isabel Allende's The House of the Spirits, Ann Cameron's Daughters of Copper Woman, and Beryl Markham's West with the Night. Members of the audience will be invited to share their favorites.

On Monday, November 18, live music and singing from the works of women musicians, such Ronnie Gilbert, Laura Nyro, Ferron, Meg Christian and Cris Williamson, will be featured.

The Women's Coffeehouse is open every Monday night from 8 to 10. It is a center for relaxed conversation as well as a place where women's art, music, literature, theater and dance can be listened to discussed and enjoyed. For further information, call the Arts Council at 924-8777.

STAR WARS TOPIC

Of Video Conference. "From Trinity to Star Wars," a nationwide video conference on nuclear arms control, will be broadcast live over Channel 35 in Princeton by Home Link Communications from 8-10, Tuesday, November 12.

Immediately following this national broadcast, the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament will present a panel of local scientists discussing the implications of SDI (Strategic Defense Initiative) on research directions and funding. The panel will consist of Dr. Philip Anderson of Princeton University, a Nobel Laureate in physics; Dr. Josephine Stein, a post-doctoral fellow with the Center for Energy and Environmental Studies; and Dr. Al Cavallo, physicist at the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory.

Physicists at institutions across the country have begun signing a petition pledging neither to solicit nor accept SDI funds and encourage others to join them in this refusal. Dr. Anderson calls it "not so much a petition as a boycott." This petition has been signed by three-quarters of the physics faculty at Princeton University.

The national telecast will be shown once on Tuesday, November 12, at 8 p.m., but the program featuring local scientists will be presented twice, November 12 at 10 p.m. (immediately following the national program) and Thursday, November 14 at 9 p.m. Local viewers with Home Link cable access may watch these programs over Channel 35.

Area residents who do not have cable access are invited to a group viewing on November 12 at the Princeton Public Library's upstairs meeting room.

TRIP TO THEATRE

The next trip is to see a matinee performance of Arthur Miller's The Price, at the newly-renovated George Street Playhouse, New Brunswick. The fee for YWCA members will be $15, non-members, $18.

For further information and reservations call Harriet Pace, 924-2463.

Station Conditions Dangerous.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a letter I have written to Louis Wasson, of New Jersey Transit.

Your name was given to me by the NJ Transit general office manager. I have several complaints about the Princeton Junction station renovation project.

The station is in a deplorable condition. I realize that eventually the station will be renovated — but when? As of now, the conditions at the station are dangerous and difficult for passengers. The dangerous areas include:

• Steps that are too steep and poorly constructed.

• The tunnel, connecting the New York and Trenton sides has deteriorated to a point where it appears close to collapsing.

• Wooden planks that are unstable and slippery in wet weather.

• No public telephones, a ticket "house" that is halfway demolished, gravel walkways that make walking a problem.

I could go on and on. When will the station area be made safe? I am fearful that when snow and freezing weather hit, we will all be falling down the stairs and sliding off the walkways. The dangerous conditions are everywhere. Someone is sure to be hurt badly.

Have you published any schedules of completion? The work appears to be going very slowly — in fact it is rare to see people working on the project.

Commuting is difficult enough, but the renovation project has made it a daily exercise in frustration. I look forward to your response.

Warning to Young Bikers.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to address the parents of the children who ride their bikes on the sidewalks of the Princeton Shopping Center. Signs prohibit this action, but the riders do not realize the implications.

Insurance can pay for broken windows, but injury, suffering, and death are also likely possibilities. A playground is provided just across the parking lot.

The bikers get thrills dodging the pedestrians and the pillars, and laying down skid marks on the sidewalks. The pedestrians, however, are there on legitimate business and many are senior citizens, not as agile or maneuverable as the bikers. Some have heart problems and many have osteoporosis (weak bones) and can fall just dodging the bikes. A fall for such a person often results in a broken hip, and one-third of such accidents can result in death in less than a year. Others are confined with pain and large expenses.

Sensitive children would not want to cause such an accident which is so easily preventable. I ask you to explain to your children the reason for such traffic signs and the very serious conditions that can result by not obeying them.

How About A Deer Park?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Birth control for deer? Seriously? An open hunting season for a week or so?

Would Princeton homeowners shoot stealthily from a second-story window or fire their blunderbusses while sitting leisurely on their patios? Doesn't it all somehow recall the Days of the Great Dog Debate?

Completely ignored is the clever groundhog. Now there's a member of the Animal Kingdom which doesn't cloak its arrogance under a guise of humility! I suspect that every groundhog in Princeton has caused more havoc in gardens than any 10 deer.

But to get back to deer, let's stop the birth control/open hunting season talk and do something that's extremely logical. A solution to the deer dilemma is simply to establish a Deer Park.

In the 16th Century, there were more than 700 such parks in England. Originally, the possession of a deer park was a royal preogative and no subject could enclose one without a direct grant from the crown.

But we naturally don't have to go that route. All that's needed is for the Princeton Township Committee to pass an ordinance creating a deer park. Then the Committee can allocate funds for purchasing a tract of land (it could, of course, see if anyone wanted to give the Township the land).

I think that several thousand acres would be adequate. Perhaps, an appropriate place could be an area with a diabase said to be too fragile to support housing units.

Once these matters are out of the way, the Princeton Township Committee can then obtain the necessary tranquilizers and helicopters whose pilots are experienced in relocating deer and other straying animals.

Considering the utter rationality of the approach, it's possible that we might even get coverage in the National Geographic Magazine for Princeton Deer Park!

Leaf Collection Underway in Township

The collection of leaves within Princeton Township is in progress and will continue until mid-December or as weather permits.

In putting out leaves for collection, Township residents are reminded that this service is for the collection of loose leaves only. Leaves put out in containers or plastic bags will not be picked up. Leaves should be left at the edge of the roadway but not in the gutter.

Residents are asked to be sure that the leaves do not contain sticks, trash, stones, etc. which may damage Township equipment.

The Township will have three leaf collection units operating independently in separate areas of the Township. This year the three areas have been revised slightly to improve the program. The areas that are scheduled to receive a minimum of two collections are the northeast, bounded by Route 206 to the west and Route 27 and the Borough line to the south; the southeast, bounded by Alexander Road to the west and the Borough line to the north; and the west, bounded by Route 206, the Borough line and Alexander Road to the east.

The collection of leaves within the Township becomes a larger project each year as the shade trees mature. Last year alone more than 1,000 truckloads of leaves were collected. In an effort to make the pick-up operation run smoother this year, the Township has purchased a piece of equipment called "The Claw" which will aid in the collection of leaves when they become wet.

Also, six temporary positions have been created in the Public Works Department to bolster the work force during this time. To date only three positions have been filled. Those interested in assisting should contact the Township Engineering Department. The rate of pay is $5 per hour.

The Township Engineer advises residents that they can assist in this massive leaf removal task by reducing the number of leaves which are raked to the street. This can be accomplished by starting a compost pile in the rear yard, hauling the leaves to the River Road landfill rather than depositing them along the road, and requesting that yard maintenance people haul the leaves away.

Residents who wish additional information concerning composting of leaves or the leaf collection schedule should contact the Township Engineering Department at 921-7077.

Can the Township Committee and the Planning Board seriously believe that a high density development in the midst of this area will not be destructive of its important cultural values? This development, even at three units per acre would be a substantial traffic generator. It would therefore be a major contributor toward pressure for infrastructure "improvements" in the area, such as replacing the old bridges over Stony Brook at Mercer Street and Route 206 and widening both Mercer Street and Route 206.

As as civil engineer with many years of experience with public works projects I can visualize what a field day engineers would have, given the problem of "improving" this area. Indeed the cultural value would be destroyed totally, but as a tradeoff we would be getting a greater flow of traffic into Princeton at a greater rate of speed. Is this what we want?

We should be planning now for the 300th anniversary of the beginning of the important town of Princeton. Let's hope there is something to celebrate when the time arrives a few short years from now. Much depends upon how the Township Committee and the Regional Planning Board manage the White Farm development and others like it.

Preserve Stony Brook Area.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The first plans for what is now Princeton began almost 300 years ago when a half-dozen Quakers, encouraged by the purchase by William Penn in 1693 of a large tract of land in West Jersey, decided to found a Quaker community in the area. They and their decendants shaped the development of Princeton in the early years.

The historian Hageman writing about Princeton says "In the south part of Princeton Township along the historic stream of Stony Brook there are still standing, hoary with age and sacred with historic associations, Worth's Mill, the ancient Quaker Meeting House and near them a little cluster of houses known before Princeton has a location and a name as the Village of Stony Brook...these Quakers were highly responsible, intelligent and religious. The influence and high position of Princeton in history may be traced in no small degree to the sterling character of these early settlers."

The important Battle of Priceton, which was a major turning point in the Revolutionary War, took place in and around the Stony Brook community. James Flexner in his biography of George Washington, quotes the British historian George Trevelyan on the battle of Trenton: "It may be doubted whether so small a number of men ever employed so short a space of time with greater and more lasting effects upon the history of the world." Flexner adds "But such would not have been the result if Washington had not gone on to overwhelm Princeton."

Thus we have in the old Stony Brook community a cultural area of great importance to Princeton and the nation. Both the State and the federal government have long since recognized this fact by the establishment of a historic district in the area. To this date, Princetoo Township has not approved such a district.

Responsibility rests with the Princeton Township Committee and the Princeton Regional Planning Board for preservation of this area, which remains very much as it was at the time of the Battle of Princeton over 200 years ago. It is most unfortunate that the White Farm, which was a part of the Stony Brook community, was zoned RM, but it would be a desecration of this important cultural area to impose upon it the kind of high density housing which it seems is now being discussed with the developer.

Fortunately both the Mt. Laurel II decision and the proposed Mercer County Growth Management Plan recognize the need to protect the environment and preserve natural resources. The Mercer County Growth Management Plan states: "Land development should take place in a way that does not conflict with the essence of the character perceived for the area ... General policy and programs should not encourage investments which may result in physical development destroying the value of an area as a cultural center."

What is the "essence of the character perceived for the area" around the White Farm? The perception must give due regard to what is already there — this includes the following:

- Parkside Drive development — unobtrusive and low density;
- Gallup Road development — very low density;
- Toll Brothers new project — low density;
- Jasna Polana — the Johnson property across 206 (a potential art museum which might very well become the finest art museum in N.J.);
- Maxwell Tract and Institute for Advanced Study;
- Battlefield State Park;
- Quaker Meeting property and Cemetery;
- Old Stony Brook Village;
- Natural stone bridges over Stony Brook — 1792 (Rt. 206) and 1810 (Princeton Pike);
- Site of the important Battle of Princeton;
- Historic farms along Quaker Road from Mercer Street to Delaware-Raritan Canal;
- Delaware-Raritan Canal Park;

A BOUNTIFUL HARVEST

At Plentiful Acres. Crisp, tangy apples — cruochy aod delicious as they are only io the autumn — prime, plump pumpkins all these fall specialties and many more are in ahundance right now at Plentiful Acres. As its name implies, this produce market, owned by Donald Salvia, offers an extensive variety of high quality, fresh fruits and vegetables. Located oo Route 27 io Kingstoo, it has beeo pleasing the puhlic in Princetoo aod a wide surroundiog area for the past 11 years.

Accordiog to Robert Alper, general manager of Plentiful Acres, a high regard for quality is the key. "We take a lot of personal care. We buy the best quality, we have a real variety, aod we display it as attractively as we can. We also try hard to cater to the customers. If people want something special, we'll try very hard to order it for them."

Indeed, the houoty oo Plentiful Acres' shelves includes somethiog for almost every taste. There are persimmons, pomegranates and papayas, as well as apples, oranges and pears. New Zealand kiwi fruit and Red Italiao lettuce are displayed right along with the bananas and broccoli.

As Mr. Alper remarks, "We're really a specialty shop. We cater to people who know what they're talking about. We ship from markets all around the world. We get produce from Ecuador and Chile, for example. Especially in the winter, we get produce from all over."

Year Round Produce. It's a steady, year-round business, he notes "We're husy all year. In the summer, we have mainly Jersey vegetables. After all, the New Jersey tomato is the best in the world! Squash, corn, peaches and plums are also popular local summer items."

In the winter, people want apples, and there is also a call for asparagus, hroccoli, cauliflower, oranges, grapefruit aod melons. Melons can be expeosive in the winter, he points out (honeydew — $2.99, cranshaw — $2.49, cantaloupe — $1.49) "but people still waot them, regardless of the season." Pineappls are always popular, too, notes Mr. Alper, and Plentiful Acres has plenty of Hawaiian pioeapples. They sell for $2.49, aod they will be cleaoed aod cored for the customer at no additional cost.

This time of year, of course, apples, pumpkins aod cider are big sellers. Macintosh, Macouo, Golden and Red Delicious, Jonathan, Stayman and Rome apples go for 49 cents a pound, and Granny Smiths are 99 cents.

Although Plentiful Acres is especially known for its fine produce, it stocks other items as well, and, in particular, has an excellent fish department, "Plentiful Acres Seafood." This is a steady part of the business," says Mr. Alper. "We ship from Philadelphia and have fresh fish every day." Varieties include grey and lemon sole, swordfish, salmon, shrimp, flounder, haddock aod mussels. Prices can range from 99 cents a pound for mussels to $7.99 for the salmon.

A Deli & Flower Shop. Country Meats & Things, a delicatessen specializiog io meats and cheeses, is also located at Plentiful Acres. Under separate ownership, it has reoted the space for the past three years. Boars Head brand meats and cheeses are among its specialties. Also at Plentiful Acres, and also under separate ownership, is the Kingston Flower Co. Just follow the brick path to this attractive shop which stocks a wide selection of flowers and plants.

Health food, gourmet items, dairy and bakery products are also available at Plentiful Acres, and Mr. Alper mentions that health food is especially popular in the winter months. "We have all natural products — carob, nuts, dried fruit, cookies, freshly ground coffee and freshly squeezed orange juice. We also carry all natural shampoos, soaps and vitamins. All of these are popular too."

A selection of delicious jams and jellies are in stock, as well as a variety of candy, including President Reagan's favorites, Jelly Belly jelly beans ($1.99 a bag.) You can also find Paul Newman's salad dressing and spaghetti sauce, a number of soft drinks and sparkling waters, breads, bagel chips and olive oil from Italy

As Mr. Alper explains, the market has expanded considerably since its early days when it emphasized fresh produce exclusively. "You have to keep adding," he says, "You can't stand still"

Fruit Baskets. Another very popular item especially for Thanksgiving and Christmas, is the Plentiful Acres fruit basket. "We make baskets to order," he says. "In fact, we made the largest in the world — somehow, it just didn't get into the record books. Our baskets start at $20 and go as high as you waot to spend. Our fruit comes from all over the wor' — New Zealand, Spain, Honduras, Italy and Holland. And in our own country, from Hawaii, California, Florida, Texas and Michigan. We will also deliver in the area — including North Brunswick and Trenton. A basket makes a very nice gift."

"NEVER A DULL MOMENT!" says Robert Alper, general manager of Plentiful Acres. The busy market is filled with a variety of fresh fruits and vegetables, as well as fish, meat and numerous sundry items.

It's New to Us

Mr Alper, whose busy job keeps him on his toes from 5:30 a.m. until 7 at night, oversees both the retail and wholesale operation of Plentiful Acres. "Our wholesale business sells to restaurants, stores and farms," reports Mr. Alper. "We have 192 accounts including northern New Jersey and Pennsylvania, with nine trucks on the road delivering produce. It's a wide-ranging operation."

———

"It's always a challenge," he adds. "I work 15 hours a day, but there's never a dull moment. Everything varies. Prices vary depending on the season, supply and demand and shipping costs. I never get bored. Around the holidays, we work around the clock. I've slept here more than once!"

Attention to detail and personal concern is what sets Plentiful Acres apart, he believes. "It's a lot of work, but every night all the produce is removed from the shelves, checked over, put on coolers for the night, and then each morning, it's all arranged on the shelves again. And, if you notice, nothing is wrapped here. Customers can touch the fruit or vegetables and select just the amount they want.

That's a definite plus, and with the produce attractively displayed as to color and category and with signs readily indicating prices, customers can have both an enjoyable and an efficient shopping tour.

Hours for Plentiful Acres are 10 to 6 Monday through Saturday, and 10 to 7 on Friday.

GET INTO FOCUS

At Princeton Camera Center. "People are more interested in photography today than ever before," reports Neil Friedenthal, owner and President of the Princeton Camera Center. "They're more knowledgeable, and they want more sophisticated equipment."

He should know! Mr. Friedenthal has owned the Princeton Camera Center, located in the Princeton Shopping Center, for nearly two years, and before that worked 12 years in another photography shop. "I've always been pretty much involved with photography," he says. "My interest began when I was about eight years old, and I got a Brownie. Since then, I've kept my interest in it through the years."

The emphasis at his store is on service. "We're a service-oriented shop," he explains. "Most of the business is service — film, finishing, photo copying. We also sell cameras and equipment."

The availability of film and film developing at so many drug stores and supermarkets does not tempt the customers who continue to support the Princeton Camera Center. "People who come here are more concerned with getting quality work," notes Mr. Friedenthal. "We use Eastman Kodak processing and also in-store finishing. Customers also come in for advice. We sell good cameras at reasonable prices, and people want to know how best to use the camera.

"We've had a lot of success with the new Minolta Maxxum," he continues. "It's an automatic focusing single lens reflex camera. It's the latest development, state of the art. The 7,000 model sells for $310, and it's something you will have for the next 10 or 15 years."

Knowledgeable Customers. He emphasizes again the increased knowledge of the average customer about photography. "National sales report that this is true. Ten years ago, for example, there were more sales of simple cameras, such as instamatics. Now, it's 35 millimeter. It's the most popular type of camera, and 35 millimeter film is what we sell the most of."

Customers coming to the Princeton Camera Center still find a variety of high-quality cameras and photographic equipment and accessories. 35 millimeter single lens reflex cameras range in price from $150 to $600 and Canon, Minolta and Konica are among the manufacturers carried. Kodak disc cameras are sold for $50. Polaroids are not as popular as they once were (probably because fast processing is so commonplace now), but there are some in stock.

Mr. Friedenthal reports that he recently stocked some telescopes — "both terrestrial and astronomical. They can be used with cameras or alone, and go from $200 to $2000. On Friday nights, or if it's clear, we'll set one up, and people might be able to see one of the planets."

Other items in the store include enlargers priced at $219.98 and $337.50, a Kodak Carousel projector at $283.20 and binoculars for $85 and up. Le Mans camera bags go for $90, and a variety of frames of wood, brass, lucite and rhodium-plated and in all shapes and sizes can range from $3.10 to $29 and up. Both traditional photo albums and Rola-Fotos are available, as are numerous magazines offering tips and techniques on improving one's photography. In addition, Mr. Friedental sells Princeton Camera Center T-shirts for $6 or free with the purchase of a camera.

With the holidays approaching, the shop also furnishes photographic Christmas card processing. Your order must be placed by November 27 with a negative, print or slide. Twenty-five cards sell for $21.25, 50 cards for $38, and 100 for $68.

With more people interested in photography these days, Mr. Friedenthal is busier than ever, and long days are the norm. Nevertheless, he still "looks forward to coming to work in the morning. Over all, I get challenged, and I'm able to help people. I think I most enjoy working with someone knowledgeable about photography, someone who's looking to upgrade his equipment and who will pick my brain. It's challenging, and sometimes I get stumped. I do enjoy it."

Customers who come not only from Princeton but all over the surrounding area including Hopewell, Plainsboro, Hightstown and Hillsborough enjoy the service, knowledge and experience offered at the Princeton Camera Center. As Mr. Friedenthal says, "We try to have a little bit of everything and cover the full gamut of photographic equipment for the amateur and the professional."

Hours for the shop are 9 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday, and 9 to 8 on Friday.

AWARD-WINNING JOURNALISTS: "The Tower", the Princeton High School newspaper, has won first place in the International Quill and Scroll Society competition and also received a first place certificate from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. In citing "The Tower", the judges of the Quill and Scroll Society cited the paper's "excellent strengths in the areas of guidelines, coverage, and business practices." Those involved in the publication include: (seated) Bryan Hsuan, Abby Rose, Justin Wolfe, David Baratz, Lara Farmanfarmaian, Wendy Norris; (standing) Kent Peterson, Gillian White, Sam Zimmerman, John Altman, Emily Allen, Brian Trelstad, Jeremy White, Kirk Williams, Douglas Shanefield, Ben Rosenthal, David Gochfeld, Dan Caspy, Advisor Joan Goodman, and Yngvild Olsen.

According to the police, the youth, a student at the Boychoir School, and two companions were out Halloweening in the area of Sycamore Lane and Riverside Drive. They were approached by five youths around 15, police said, wearing Halloween masks and dark clothing.

The teenagers allegedly voiced a few obscenities and as the victim started to walk away, one of the five, police continued, drew a BB pistol from his shirt and shot him in the back.

The victim, wearing a raincoat and other layers of clothing, was not hurt. Police searched the area for the five suspects without success.

RECORD CALLS

For First Aid Squad. The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad responded to an all-time record high of 162 calls during September. Captain Mary Anne Henderson reported that 150 of the calls were emergency dispatches, seven were routine transports, and five were "other," such as the standby at the Princeton Half Marathon.

She added that 46 of the calls were in Princeton Borough, 67 were in the Township, and 49 were out of town, mostly calls for the squad's Lifemobile (mobile intensive care unit).

For the first nine months of 1985, the squad has answered 1234 calls, an increase of 190 calls (18.2 percent) over the corresponding figure of a year ago.

Captain Henderson noted that Princeton's Lifemobile has been Mercer County's most active mobile intensive care unit outside of the City of Trenton. This is expected to change, she said, as the County system begins to handle most of the out-of-town Lifemobile requests.

SEXUAL 'ALIVENESS'

New Homes

The trend began with the development of Constitution Hill, the 29-room Jacobean style mansion belonging to the late Junius P. Morgan. Purchased by Collins Development, the brick mansion and carriage house were converted into eight and two condominium units, respectively, while 50 single-family and semi-attached houses were added in clusters on the surrounding 47 acres. In December, construction is expected to be finished on the final home in this 60-unit condominium development that took five years to complete.

Constitution Hill units offered at $246,000 initially have almost doubled in price over the five years. One that sold for $315,000 in August, 1982, new, was resold this year for $400,000.

The dark-red brick mansion, with its red brick wall and three-bay garage-carriage house, that is the focal point of Heatherstone is reminiscent of Constitution Hill. Once the residence of George Cook, a former president of Princeton Bank, the house and three acres have been sold by Toll Brothers for $650,000. Ms. Novak says a family expects to renovate it and make it their home.

Heatherstone homes will be built on three-quarter acre lots in two unconnected sections, one with access from the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road, the other from Mercer Road. The land, which has been in open fields, slopes down from the Lawrenceville Road side, from which there is a commanding view of the University's spires. Only a hedgerow separates the eastern boundary from the White Farm, on which Calton Homes has an option and a builder's remedy suit to build 1,280 homes, 20 percent for lower income families.

Ms. Novak seems unperturbed by what this suit might do to the spiraling prices and "selling-like-hotcakes" aspects of Heatherstone. "They're going to be teachers and librarians and policemen living there," she says. "That can only be beneficial."

Closer to town, sales are proceeding briskly at the Russell Estates, the 84-acre estate surrounding the Georgian manor house belonging to the late Archibald Russell. Located between Edgerstoune and Constitution Hill, the property was purchased two years ago by Springlands Associates of New York City for $2.2 million.

Springlands plans 56 homes clustered around landscaped courts with names like Torkington Court, Beatty Court, Leslie and Vreeland Courts. As an aside, it is worth noting that in the same way that Princeton residents during the 1950s building boom learned to get used to road names like Dodds Lane and Marion Road East and West, residents of the late 80's will find their way to addresses on Brearly and Breckinridge Roads (Russell Estates); Potters Run, Carriage Way and Hale Drive (Heatherstone); James, Florence and Kimberly Court (Hillier family names on signposts in the Hillier-developed The Glen).

There could also be a Thomas Mann Drive and a Maritain Drive, if the conglomerate calling itself Great Road Joint Venture - Stone Companies Inc. N.S.L. Service Corp., which purchased 53 acres off the Great Road (formerly owned by G.R.D. Associates) for $1.5 million, likes the names proposed for the two roads in that subdivision.

G.R.D. Associates received preliminary Planning Board subdivision approval for 25 lots but was caught in the sewer ban imposed by the State Department of Environmental Protection against "wet" connections. The ban was imposed in 1984 until the sewer collection system is repaired and no longer overflowing at key points in wet weather.

Just in Time. Despite the efforts of sewer activists and environmentalists to prevent any new sewer connections until the sewers were fixed, Heatherstone and Russell Estates received sewer extension permits before the ban went into effect. At Russell Estates 21 of the proposed 56 lots have been sold, and building permits have been issued for four Springlands-designed customized homes on those one-half to one-acre lots.

An imposing Georgian-style brick house has been erected as a "spec" house at a suggested price of $595,000 — which gives an indication of the price range in the Russell Estates. Of the two existing substantial dwellings on the property, a French provincial house has been sold to a Princeton resident for $315,000 and the Russell mansion itself is in the process of being renovated.

Brooks Bend, the 129-acre Bernard Peyton estate on Pretty Brook Road, purchased by former CUH2A architect Michael Giordino and his father David, is "sold out" within a year of the close of the sale. The Giordinos paid $2.5 million and took title in October, 1984. Some of the 22 lots have been retained by family members; David Giordino himself is living in the 14-room mansion, while a modern Georgian-style house erected near one entrance bears an asking price of $900,000.

Unlike the modified cluster with common open space of other developments in the Township, Brooks Bend offers larger lots from two to seven acres. They have been arranged conventionally along the inner and outer curves of a single horse-shoe shaped roadway. Prices range from $200,000 to $250,000 for each lot, and one individual has bought two.

Tod Peyton, of Peyton Real Estate, which handled the Brooks Bend sales, says that kind of "sprawled out" development, which he calls "the ultimate" in land conservation, may be the last of its kind. Michael Giordino, who is under contract to purchase the Italian-American Sportsman's Club (see story page 1), comes in for high praise from the Peyton realtors for developing "a very beautiful piece of land in a very beautiful way."

Lot Prices Soar. The Glen, another subdivision wrapped around an estate off Mountain Avenue, has also "sold out" in recent weeks, despite a slow start when it was initially offered. Not new to the tax map as the others are, The Glen reflects, however, the same kind of upward spiraling prices that are taking place in other developments. In 1983, one of the first purchasers bought three lots of one-half acre or slightly larger in order to protect her view. The price for all three lots was $180,000, whereas a single lot was purchased in 1985 for $110,000, according to Township records.

Meanwhile, lots of one to two acres in Russell Baltzer's 13-lot development off Montadale Road are selling for $135,000, just for the land. This development, too, narrowly escaped the sewer ban, despite strong efforts on the part of sewer activists.

Benedict Yedlin was not so fortunate. Mr. Yedlin has gone to great lengths and considerable expense to design and obtain permission for a sewer holding tank as a way of getting around the lack of wet sewer connection for the first phase of his Foulet tract development off Cherry Hill Road. Mr. Yedlin and his son plan 19 contemporary homes — a change, at any rate, from the Georgian colonials — priced to sell in the $450,000 to $500,000 range.

With their eyes on the Route One corridor developments, Princeton residents may not have realized that there was a building boom going on in their own backyard.

—Barbara L. Johnson

several offers. The Princeton Alliance Church, relatively new and with a fast-growing membership, which presently meets at Princeton High School, is understood to have also been bidding on the property at the time Mr. Giordino made his bid.

In addition to meeting the Club's price, Mr. Giordino is believed to have agreed to certain stipulations on the part of the Club. Rather than disappearing from the scene as a social orgnization for residents of Italian descent, the Italian-American Sportsmen intends to continue.

According to Mr. Toto, the plan is to retain five acres on which to construct a smaller building further back from Terhune Road. Mr. Giordino, an architect formerly with CUH2A, has offered to assist with the design of the new building.

Founded in 1947. As Mr. Toto tells the history, the organization has been in existence in Princeton since 1947. There were seven founders, but one individual, the late Flory Toto, proprietor of Toto's Market on Witherspoon Street, put up all the money to purchase the 84-acre farm belonging to George Hahn. The land stretched from Ewing Street to Journey's End Lane.

Sportsmen Club

Some of it was sold for building lots along Harrison Street, but the Italian-American Sportsmen retained 75 acres. In 1959-60, 45 acres were sold to Opinion Research Corp. for its headquarters, and with the proceeds the Club building was built.

Members, many of them masons and landscape contractors by trade, contributed their own labor in the construction. The problem today, as one member puts it, is that the younger generation is not joining the Club, paying the dues and mowing the lawn to help with the upkeep. Finding Princeton too expensive, the younger generation is forced to find housing outside of Princeton and then is reluctant to join an organization not located where they live.

In addition, the Club leased its main room to Nassau Nursery School a year ago and now cannot use that room to hold functions for which it could charge a fee. Those fees also helped pay the taxes, club members say.

Mr. Giordino is a Princeton resident, as are his parents. The Giordinos made news in the summer of 1984 when Michael, then 29, teamed up with his father, David, to purchase the 129-acre Peyton estate on Pretty Brook Road for a reported $2.5 million. The idea was partly to develop the property, partly to encourage the senior Giordinos to return to Princeton where David had gone to the University and where they had lived before moving to Summit.

David Giordino was reportedly in the construction business in north Jersey and hoped his son would go to Princeton. Michael, however, graduated from Wesleyan with the Class of 1977 and earned his architectural degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1980. He practiced in Princeton and in time bought a home on Westcott Road.

Not 'One-Shot Deal.' In August, 1984, when the Brooks Bend subdivision was before the Planning Board, Mr. Giordino told a TOWN TOPICS interviewer that the Pretty Brook residential development (as it was then called) was not "a one-shot deal." He added that he and his father planned to concentrate on that project "until it is well under construction," implying that there would be more to come.

With all the lots in Brooks Bend sold, and groundbreaking planned for several this fall, and more in the spring, that project could be described as being well under way and Mr. Giordino true to his word.

Three Small Area Companies Could Be The Blue-Chip Stocks of Future Years

Solar panels, truck trailers, and advanced avionics equipment are among the products made by growing companies headquartered in the Princeton area that may make a bigger name for themselves in the future.

Some of the most interesting local companies to watch are the small publicly owned corporations which are not yet large enough to attract attention from many investors. Stock brokers often advise investors to buy stock in companies they know — manufacturers of familiar products or companies located in the investor's home town. Although over-the-counter stocks are more speculative than most investors should consider, they could be the blue chips of tomorrow.

Stock brokers here were asked to identify some Princeton area companies which are publicly owned yet still relatively small. Both Pete Thropp of Laidlaw Adams and Peck and Fred Woodbridge of Tucker Anthony on Nassau Street mentioned the acquisition growth of Princeton's Pullman Company. Laidlaw makes a market in Base Ten Systems, described by Mr. Thropp as "an example of venture capital that has succeeded." He also suggested that Chronor Corp., "still a venture capital situation," is worth a second look.

"Over-the-counter stocks are not for widows and orphans," said Mr. Woodbridge. "Most investors should look for a portfolio of blue chip stocks and fixed income investments." However, because these companies can be tracked through stock market listings, they provide an opportunity to follow the ups and downs of a segment of area business.

"This has been a busy time for me," commented Pullman president Tom Begel from his office on Nassau Street. The Pullman Corporation has just merged with Peabody International Corporation to become Pullman-Peabody Co., more than doubling its size overnight.

Pullman traded over the counter on October 24 until the market closed and opened as Pullman Peabody on the New York Stock Exchange on October 25 without missing a beat. The merger price was anticipated providing no last-minute profits for speculators. More important, the new Pullman is just the latest in a series of mergers and divestitures orchestrated by Tom Begel and the new Pullman management.

No Longer Railroad Cars. Founded in 1865, Pullman was the premier manufacturer of railroad cars during the heyday of the railroads. By 1983 the company was fundamentally bankrupt. As its new president, Mr. Begel began to redeploy the assets of the company, selling out of the depressed railroad industry in February, 1984. Within a month, Pullman acquired a truck trailer manufacturer, and a company which produces airline seats and food service systems.

During the same period, Pullman left Chicago, the railroad capital, relocating in Princeton, closer to New York's financial center where mergers and take-overs are made.

"We looked at Connecticut and Northern New Jersey, but Princeton was very appealing - accessible, but not yet too overcrowded," commented Mr. Begel, who now owns a farm in Hopewell and laments the area's continued development. "We decided that if we were going to be in Princeton it would be great to be right on Nassau Street rather than out on Route One or in the office parks."

Pullman occupies 2½ floors of the Gershen Building. When the dust settles from this latest and largest corporate takeover, Mr. Begel hopes to keep Pullman Peabody on Nassau. With Peabody's engineering and commercial products business, Pullman is now a $700 million company. After some fine tuning is done by selling off a few subsidiaries, Pullman Peabody plans to settle in the $550-$600 million range.

Growth from Within. By next summer, when the addition to Base Ten System's headquarters and main plant is complete, this multinational company will own and occupy an approximately 85,000-square-foot facility in Hamilton Township. Unlike Pullman with its long history and recent growth through acquisition, Base Ten Systems is a local company which has grown from within.

The three founders are still running the company: president Myles Kranzler, a Montgomery resident; and senior vice presidents James Eby of Hopewell and William Errickson of Lawrenceville.

Founded in 1966, Base Ten went public in 1968. The company's first 10 years were mainly spent in the design and manufacture of telemetric equipment for the prototype and research aircraft of the German/English/Italian Tornado aircraft program. In 1976, volume production of avionics equipment for actual built aircraft lifted the company out of the narrow market for prototypes and into higher revenues.

By 1981, a secondary stock offering brought in new capital and Base Ten began a diversification program. Today, Base Ten has expanded its international business, developed new U.S. defense business, and entered commercial markets with telecommunications products. Mr. Kranzler projects $100 million in annual business by 1990, up from the current $30 million level.

Located east of Route One near UPS, the headquarters and main plant are home to two-thirds of Base Ten's 600 employees. Like Pullman, Base Ten management is delighted with its location. "We've put a lot of money into this facility," said Mr. Errikson. "We're proud of it."

Offices and other work areas flow into each other through endless doors and corridors. Computers are everywhere, essential to every part of the business from concept through final product. Workers in white lab coats quietly manufacture the Base Ten products seated at long desks not far from the executive offices. Are employees investing in the company? All officers and any employees of three years' standing qualify for the stock option program, and a profit sharing program figured on a monthly basis keeps Base Ten employees aware of where the company is headed.

Harnessing the Sun. In a state that is home to the oil refineries of Linden and where toxi waste is the major issue in the gubernatorial campaign, solar power sounds too wonderfully non-hazardous to be true. However, not far from the Base Ten complex in Hamilton Township, a company called Chronar is in the photovoltaic business.

Photovoltaics uses solar cells to turn sunlight into electricity. Chronar Corp. pioneered the latest generation of photovoltaics and is now an international leader in the design and manufacture of amorphous silicon photovoltaic panels and systems.

The company was founded in 1976 by physicist Zolten Kiss, the inventor of liquid crystal display. Chronar has expanded from a concentration on research and development to include the manufactue of low-cost thin film photovoltaic panels and commercialization of products using the technology.

The state-of-the-art manufacture of the shimmering glass panels involves the latest laser and computer technology. Through joint venture partnerships, Chronar sells the technology, building photovoltaic panel manufacturing plants and sharing in their operation and profits. Additionally, Chronar has a small product line of solar powered items.

Red Ink Turns Black. Within the last 12 months, the first manufacturing plants opened, in Port Jervis, N.Y., and Wales, bringing Chronar out of the red ink for the first two quarters of 1985. Future plants are planned or under construction in France, Yugoslavia, and Alabama. Each facility operates under a separate arrangement with ownership shared by Chronar and local companies or agencies.

Locally, Chronar will soon be breaking ground for a new 65,000-square-foot solar powered headquarters on I-295, just off Route One. The company has 118 employees in New Jersey, most of them working in the overflowing building on Bakers Basin Road.

Dr. Kiss, a Hungarian physicist, is a former RCA Labs laser expert and was president of Optel. The Montgomery resident holds 18 patents in laser and solar technology. Chronar's executive vice president, Richard L. Wright of Princeton, served in the Carter administration and was head of Amnesty International.

In the trillion-dollar international energy market, solar is beginning to compete with traditional energy sources in certain applications. Chronar is the only company of its kind which is not owned by a major oil or electric company. According to Mr. Wright, the company will stay independent for now, and avoid becoming part of a major corporation.

Chronar has had its problems and continues to face the risks of a rapidly growing young company. The Chronar annual report is interesting and required reading for anyone interested in following this fascinating company.

Revenues were over $1.5 million in the year 1984, figured on an annual basis. In the first half of 1985, Chronar showed over $3.3 million in revenues as the first plants began operation.

Low Mortgages Extended

The New Jersey Housing & Mortgage Finance Agency (HMFA) will offer 10.7 percent, fixed-rate home loans through the end of March. Previously, the agency had promised to keep funding available only through October 31.

The 30-year loans are available to buyers in specific urban areas and first-time home buyers statewide meeting maximum income limits ranging from $30,000 to $34,000.

With this extension, the HMFA added another $22 million, bringing the total loan fund to $162 million. About half of the money already has been reserved or committed, and the agency expects the remaining $81 million will be sufficient to serve homebuyers into the first three months of next year.

Compared to a conventional 30-year loan at 12.5 percent, a Home Mortgage Program loan at 10.7 percent offers savings of approximately $61.90 per month on a $45,000 mortgage. Over a 30-year loan, the total saving comes to $22,284.

The HMFA also offers 9.375 percent home improvement loans to low- and moderate-income homeowners statewide. Home Improvement Loan Program funds are available for general home improvements, including home expansions, roof replacements, kitchen and bath renovations and energy conservation measures.

Further information concerning the Home Mortgage Program and Home Improvement Loan Program may be obtained from Nassau Savings and Loan Association New Jersey Housing & Mortgage Finance Agency's Hot LIne at 890-1300.

BUSINESS

CHILDREN'S SHOP

To Open on Palmer Square. Lobel's of Princeton is scheduled to open next month at 11 Palmer Square East. It will carry clothing in a size range from infants to boys and girls size 14.

Most of the clothes will be imported from Europe and many will be hand-made.

Non-clothing items will also be offered. These will include stocking stuffers, hair accessories, mobiles, hand-made rocking chairs, and rocking sheep.

These, says owner Jayne Engleheart, were found in a little town in England this summer, "and they look like real sheep."

Lobel's will also offer special ordering services, such as a child's outfit appropriate for a wedding.

FURNITURE BOUTIQUE

Set for Shopping Center. Bellini, a shop featuring European juvenile designer furniture, is scheduled to open in the Princeton Shopping Center on November 15.

Located next door to the Pants Saloon, it is the third Bellini boutique to open in New Jersey and the 15th nationally.

The shop will feature children's furniture and accessories, including cribs, armoires, dressers, bedding, trundle beds and desks. Also offered will be playpens, strollers, layettes and designer clothing.

A free baby gift will be given to any adult who visits the new store.

MORAN HONORED

By Carnegie Center. John Moran, an executive with Lewis C. Bowers until his death last year, was recently honored by Carnegie Center. A plaque in his memory was dedicated at the center, honoring him for his foresight and vision in helping to conceive the original center.

MOVE TO CARNEGIE

Announced by N.Y. Firm. Johnson & Higgins will establish a technical operations center and an integrated consulting resource at Carnegie Center. The company, the oldest insurance brokerage firm in the United States, is headquartered at 95 Wall Street, New York City.

Johnson & Higgins will move into a 100,000 square foot, four-story building at Carnegie Center in early 1986. The initial working staff will number approximately 250, including over 120 employees from the New York office. Sibson & Company, the firm's Princeton-based compensation consulting subsidiary, and Winklevoss & Associates, Philadelphia, will also move their operations to the Route 1 site.

James Harlow, chairman of the company's National Benefits Practice Committee, said that the Princeton Center could employ as many as 350 people by the end of 1986. He noted that it will be used primarily to assist Johnson & Higgins' offices on the East Coast.

During the war, he served as a civilian engineer in Scotland, before joining the U.S. Navy in 1943. Specializing in underwater demolition in North Africa and France, he was also liaison officer to the French Navy.

Mr. Morrissey joined W.R. Grace and Co in 1947, and as a member of its Latin American Group, he worked in Peru, Colombia and Brazil. After two years in the Philippines in the early 70's, he moved to Singapore and joined the North Borneo Timbers Berhad, a British international marketing firm. His final overseas assignment for the same company was in Malaysia. He returned to Princeton in 1981.

Wendell H. Taylor, chairman of the science department at The Lawrenceville School from 1943-1971, and a resident of Princeton for 50 years, died November 3 in Princeton Medical Center after a long illness.

Dr. Taylor was widely known as scholar, educational innovator, crime-fiction exper' and editor. He lectured ano wrote about the crime genre and eventually collaborated with Jacques Barzun on A Catalogue of Crime (1971), the first critical repertory, numbering some 3500 entries. He was at work on a revision when he was struck by cancer, the recurrence of which led to his death.

Born in Uniontown, Pa. in 1905, he was the son of two physicians. His mother, Louise Hertig before her marriage, was one of the first American women physicians to study medicine in Paris.

Dr. Taylor was a graduate of Princeton, Class of 1926, where he also earned his Ph.D. He worked for one year in the research laboratories of du Pont in Wilmington, Del., then returned by invitation to join the Princeton chemistry department.

He proved to be an excellent and popular teacher, with original ideas about the way to teach his subject to undergraduates. On his own initiative, he set up and gave for several years the first college course in the history of science to be offered in any institution in the Northeast. The course was discontinued at the request of the history and philosophy departments, which felt the subject belonged to their domains.

This rebuff was partly instrumental in leading Mr. Taylor to accept the post of chairman of the science department at Lawrenceville.

At Lawrenceville, he reorganized the science curriculum while strengthening

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

Highlights is sponsored and prepared by the Parent Teacher Organization of the Princeton Regional Schools.

COMMUNITY PARK SCHOOL

"LISTENING WHILE MOVING" is what makes Community Park's dance workshops a new experience for many students, according to dancer-in-residence Harry Streep. "Usually in school, they listen and work sitting down, and when they're moving around they don't have to concentrate. I teach them to pay attention to their movements, and remember their movements. I expect them to make a dance."

Mr. Streep is spending a month at Community Park School, teaching a series of four workshops to each class. The first session introduces the idea of using movement to tell a story, the concept of the "dance phase" as a unit of movement, and a technique called "accumulation" which is a way of memorizing a series of movements, so that they can be performed in the same way any number of times.

The second session, described by Mr. Streep as the most difficult, focuses on creating movements and forming specific shapes; the third and "wildest," on taking these movements across a larger space and combining the movements of several people; and the fourth, on creating a routine with even larger groups. For fourth-graders, there is one more workshop in which students create a more polished dance project. Students also learn to diagram their dances on paper, or for the youngest, to draw a picture of what they have done.

This may sound pretty sophisticated, but in reality, kindergarteners often "learn with their bodies" more easily than older children, according to Mr. Streep. He adds that for some, learning to work in groups is the hardest part, but he finds this is less true at Community Park than in some other schools he has visited. "I think they do more of that here."

CAVES, CARTOONS, AND PARKING METERS: Don't miss the current hallway display of second-graders' "cave-paintings," inspired by the real Stone Age cave art found recently in France. Art teacher Ted Lynch told his classes the story of the discovery of these works, and discussed the purposes cave art served in the days before written language. Since those paintings often took their form from the various lines and outcroppings of the walls' surfaces, Mr. Lynch encouraged his students to crumple their drawing paper, flatten it, and look for suggestions of shapes in the creases, much as they might look for animal shapes and faces in a cloud formation or in the cracks in a ceiling.

Also on display are comic strips drawn by third- and fourth-graders, who studied the three-step technique of cartoon art before beginning to draw. First the basic figures and objects are drawn in pencil; then background is added; last, lines are re-drawn in ink, with shading and texture added. Subjects of the works displayed range from "Easter Bunny" to "Visitors From Planet X."

Parking-meter hats, for the much-publicized "birthday party" celebrating the 50th anniversary of Princeton's parking meters, have been an especially exciting project. Those were made for the occasion by many local schools, but ours are gorgeous! We hope you got to see them.

CLASS NOTES: Linda Bruschi's first- and second-graders began their study of geography by making color-coded maps of the classroom, and went on to make their own globes out of papier-mache with continents cut out and pasted on. Next, each will be a news reporter and "explore" a country; eventually the class will hold an International Bazaar. This class is also enjoying the talents of student teacher Beth Colley, who is teaching a unit on life cycles and animal classification.

A big event last week for Linda Gougoutas's second- and third-grade class was their class picnic, held outdoors October 29 after being rained out the week before. Parents were invited. The class got to try out the wind-socks they made as part of their study of weather; they also learned some of the rudiments of cricket from an English classmate who brought his bat to share (not at all like a baseball bat!).

Visitors to Sally Rowland's K-1 class this fall have included Sticky the Slug and Hoppy the Grasshopper. Their turtle, Eles, paid only a brief visit; he was then set free (at the request of his hosts) by the fourth grade on their camping trip.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

DID YOU KNOW THAT-
with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

You can use your microwave to sterilize soil. The length of time necessary for sterilization depends on the amount of wattage used. As the watting output can vary from 400 to 900 watts, the higher the output, the less time required for sterilization. One way to calculate how much time is needed in your microwave is to see how long it takes for one cup of water to boil. Place wetted soil in the microwave and heat for the length of time it took the water to boil and then add one minute. The soil will then have no living microorganisms living in it. The high temperature and length of exposure necessary to kill all the weed seeds would result in the breakdown of the soil's structure.

Your garden flowers should be planted either in drifts of the same color or in groupings that highlight contrasts in shape and texture. Consider using a pure color followed by a flower with a tint of that color and then by a white flower for the most pleasing effect.

You should plant bulbs about one hand span deep (approximately 8").

Do contact WOODWINDS (924-3500) for your tree care needs.

IN HOPEWELL there is a large loft where fine reproductions of oil paintings are lifted off their paper and impregnated into artists canvas under an atmosphere of pressure. They are then stretched by hand over wooden stretcher bars to hang as is or framed. The results are stunning pieces of artwork as rich in texture and color as the originals from which the reproductions were made.

You are invited to come and see the extraordinary transformation of your progress yourself and maybe walk away with a Monet but couldn't afford one you may come away with the perfect compromise.

After Seven Years, Senior Center Behind Borough Hall Will Finally Open as a Joint Borough-Township Operation

Some projects just take a long time to get off the ground.

It was exactly seven years ago this month that Princeton Borough approved turning the cinderblock building behind Borough Hall into a senior center.

The building had been the gym for Miss Fine's school, which merged with Princeton Country Day to form the present Princeton Day School. The school itself, a Victorian building, was razed to make way for Borough Hall.

The seven-year gestation appears to be nearing its end. In the past several months, the center has taken several quantum leaps forward. For one thing, it has a name. And for another, it is largely completed.

The center will be named in honor of Suzanne Patterson, the late wife of former Borough Mayor Henry Patterson. Dedication ceremonies have been announced for sometime in December.

When the doors finally open on a regular basis, seniors will meet in a huge open space with spotless white walls, shining wood floors, a vaulted ceiling, and two enclosed offices in the rear. The windows are immense, and fill the room with light. There's also a small kitchen off the hallway that connects the center with the Princeton Art Association.

The center shares the former gym with the PAA, which pays $8,500 a year toward utilities plus a share of maintenance costs.

Joint Operation Approved. Another big step forward is the Borough and Township's recent approval of a two-page memo outlining the details of joint operation of the center.

Item five of the agreement states, "the two municipalities will jointly contract with Mrs. Jocelyn Helm to serve as coordinator of senior programming at various centers in the two municipalities."

Mrs. Helm, director of the Senior Resource Center for the past ten years, said that nothing has yet been signed and that no one at either the Borough or the Township has talked to her about the agreement.

"There has got to be some time when some of us can sit down and talk," she said.

Mrs. Helm was asked by Borough Administrator Mark Gordon to help draft the advertisement for a director. It is scheduled to run this week. The center's director will be hired for at least 30 hours per week and will be paid a salary not to exceed $16,500 for the full year of 1986.

He or she will be selected by a committee consisting of the mayor of each municipality or their designee, a member each of Borough Council and Township Committee, and the Borough administrator.

Programming Key Element. Programming will be a key element in the success of the new center. Yet the topic of programming does not appear to have been seriously addressed by the participants. Mrs. Helm, the seemingly hoped-for program coordinator, says she has not discussed the subject with anyone in either municipality.

She pointed out that one should not expect the new director to walk in with a tailor-made program.

"People don't come in with programs," she said. "They are established out of the needs of the community."

The Borough-Township agreement for joint operation provides for the Joint Commission on Aging to serve as the administrative policy agency for program and budget, and states that all costs covered by the two municipalities shall be shared on a 50:50 matching basis. It sets $25,000 as the 1986 maximum total cost for the two towns.

Since its conception in 1978, the senior center has received an infusion of close to $100,000 for renovation. This includes $78,000 from the federal and state government and $21,000 from the Princeton Art Association, which moved into the building last year.

A year ago, the Borough allocated an additional $17,000 from its capital improvement fund to complete the renovation.

Borough officials estimate that about $28,000 was saved on the cost of painting the interior and exterior because the job was done free of charge by inmates of the Mercer County Correction Center.

Architectural services were provided at no cost by Princeton Architect E. Harvey Myers. A large amount of volunteer labor also went into the renovation.

Some Rough Going. Disputes about the center ranged back and forth over the years. In September, 1982, when Borough Council first suggested the idea that the PAA share the space in the interests of saving money, several officials of the Senior Citizens Club objected. The club president called the idea "unacceptable." A year later, Mrs. Helm publicly voiced her concerns about the county role in the center's planning.

As it stands now, Mercer County will monitor the center's operation for a five-year period. This is required by law because the state and federal monies provided to the center were channeled through the county.

The center will be open to all county residents and the county will provide an on-site outreach worker.

The Borough-Township agreement also states that the county will provide programs and services for senior citizens. But there is no mention of what these programs will be.

In September, 1983, TOWN TOPICS asked a number of questions about the center. "Is it ever going to open ... When it does, what kinds of programs will it offer? ... Is anybody planning these programs?"

Although much has been accomplished since then, some of these same questions may still be asked today.

The Community Phase is targeted towards individuals, families, and businesses. Its outreach program has given thousands of schoolchildren an opportunity to experience live theatre, many for the first time. Its training wing holds theatre classes where amateurs can learn their craft from professionals. Now, McCarter, in the midst of a major two-phase renovation, is reaching out to all its audiences with a request for broad-based community support.

Chaired by Mrs. Teddi Wei, the "community phase" of the Capital Campaign seeks the support of every individual, family and small business in the McCarter community. With two vice-chairmen, Liz Sheehan and Willa Stackpole, and 17 captains, the thrust of the campaign is to solicit people to buy one seat ($1,500) or a pair of seats ($3,000), payable over a three-year period. Both smaller and larger donations will be accepted also.

Says Mrs. Wei, "Purchasing a seat allows the buyer a beautiful brass plaque on the back of the seat inscribed with any name they like. But more importantly, the seat is a permanent installation in the theatre and represents a very strong statement of commitment from the buyer. There are over 1,000 seats available, and it is our goal to put a name on every one of those seats. We believe this to be a unique opportunity for the community to show its support of McCarter Theatre — an unquestionably vital arts institution in New Jersey."

Four of the captains will be involved in soliciting area businesses: Louise Bachelder, Mitch Forest (of Forest Jewelers), Linda Sullivan (VP, Millstone Group/Minute Press), and Robert Landau (of Landau's). Charlotte McLaughlin will solicit realtors and individuals.

Other captains include Mimi Ballard, Judi de Turo, Bob Hall, Michael Prewitt (President, Dana Productions, the company that designed the major Capital Campaign brochure), Fong Wei, Anne Kahn, Carol Herring, Linda and Arthur Meisel, Jane Schowalter, Adrienne Snyderman, and Victoria Mastrobuono. These captains have in turn recruited more than 100 solicitors to help them.

Although McCarter is currently in construction of Phase One of the renovation, the Capital Campaign is presently raising monies to cover both Phase One and Phase Two — the latter includes construction of new offices, conference and rehearsal rooms, Associates lounge and elegant glass-enclosed lobby — a total of $5.6 million. Says Mrs. Wei, "We would love to see strong community backing now, in order to enable McCarter to break ground on Phase Two directly after Phase One is completed."

PLAY READING: McCarter actors Nat Warren-White, left, and Jay Doyle took part in a recent reading of "A Saint by Any Other Name," by Joe Hart. Playwrights-at-McCarter concludes its fall series with "Solo Flight" by John Reaves, Monday, November 11, at 7:30 in the Forbes College Theatre.

ONE-MAN SHOW DUE

Alec McCowen in "Kipling." Alec McCowen, whose widely acclaimed one-man show St. Mark's Gospel won him a Tony Award nomination in 1982, will bring his latest solo effort, Kipling, to the stage in Alexander Hall on Friday under the auspices of McCarter Theatre.

Written by Brian Clark, Kipling had a limited Broadway run last season, and revolves around the life and work of the famed British author of such literary classics as Kim, The Jungle Book and Captains Courageous.

Mr. McCowen, a leading figure of the English stage for more than a quarter century, made his Broadway debut with the Oliviers in Anthony ond Cleopatra, and has returned to New York on many subsequent occasions to star in such productions as After the Rain, The Philanthropist, Equus and Hadrian VII, for which he won a second Tony Award nomination.

A mainstay of the Old Vic since 1959, he subsequently joined the Royal Shakespeare Company and achieved notable success as The Fool in Peter Brook's production of King Lear with Paul Scofield. Mr McCowen's movie credits include Stevie with Glenda Jackson, Travels with My Aunt with Maggie Smith, Never Say Never Again with Sean Connery, and Alfred Hitchcock's Frenzy.

Tickets for Kipling, which will include excerpts from both the author's prose and poetry, are available from the McCarter box office, Monday through Friday from noon-6 p.m. at 452-5200. Ticket prices are $12.50 for main floor and $9.50-$11.50 for balcony seating.

ICEMAN COMETH

To Kresge Auditorium. Fred Schepisi's Iceman, one of the "most neglected" of 1984's major motion pictures, will have its Princeton area premiere on Monday and Tuesday, November 11 and 12 at Kresge Auditorium as part of the Movies-from-McCarter series. Showings are scheduled for 7:30 and 9:15 p.m. each evening.

Iceman is the remarkable screen story of a Neanderthal Man found frozen in the Arctic wastes by a team of scientists. Nicknamed "Charlie" and played by Eurasian actor John Lone, the 40,000-year-old specimen is brought back to life by a team of scientists headed by Timothy Hutton.

The result is a portrait of a man outside civilization, and much of the movie's fascination is in watching "Charlie" reinvent human responses: panic, fatigue, coriosity, attraction, sense of humor. In his encounters with Hutton, who assumes the major responsibility for the iceman's reintroduction to civilization, Lone gives "Charlie" a personality which is at once jocular, inquiring, gregarious and excitable.

Single ticket admission is $3.25 at the door, $2 for University students.

Princeton Pro Musica Concert Presents Major Works for Chorus and Orchestra

For a relatively small town, Princeton can boast of a surprising number of community musical organizations of professional stature. The high quality of the Chamber Symphony of Princeton and the newly formed Westminster Conservatory Chamber Orchestra have been cited here recently. Another organization of equal prominence which specializes in major works for chorus and orchestra is the Princeton Pro Musica, under the direction of Frances Slade. This ensemble exists in several different forms — chamber chorus, full chorus and orchestra — all of which were presented in a well-attended concert held at Richardson Auditorium on the Princeton University campus.

A considerable variety of music was featured on Sunday's program: Vincent Persichetti's Mass (Op. 84) for o capella chamber chorus; Symphony No. 5 in B flat Major (D. 485) by Schubert; and Beethoven's Mass in C Major (Op. 86).

The work by Persichetti was given a nicely defined performance by the 28-voice Chamber Chorus. This ensemble sang with remarkable control and unity of motion, giving the work's unmetered melodies a chant-like feeling. There was substance to the choral tone, though it became thin and susceptible to intonation problems when split into six, seven or eight parts. Nevertheless, the work's spicy harmonies were sung convincingly, and attention was given to the symbolism in the composer's treament of the text.

The singers of the full chorus produced an altogether different sound in the mass by Beethoven — bigger (because of numbers), richer, more varied in color. This group was able to put strength into its tone without becoming disagreeable. The choral lines were cleanly articulated, especially in the fugal setting of the phrase "cum sancto spiritu." Clear enunciation made the text pleasantly understandable.

Splendid Soloists. The quartet of soloists for the Beethoven consisted of singers who have performed locally on many occasions: Linda Wall (soprano), Mary Wescott (mezzo-soprano), Wayne Behr (tenor), and William Riley (baritone). All sang splendidly, although Mr. Behr's voice had fatigued noticeably by the end.

The orchestral work in this piece was laudable for its sensitivity to the dynamic capacities of the quartet. In loud sections, with the chorus singing at full volume, the instruments were even a bit overbalanced, though they surely were not holding back in their playing.

As a separate entity, the orchestra played the Schubert symphony, a work assured of a good performance with this able ensemble. Comprised of some of this area's best instrumentalists, the orchestra had a full-bodied tone belying its modest size. The strings played with zest, though they were not always as careful with

Come to Lahiere's and taste the delicious, fruity

1985 Beaujolais!

On November 26 Lahiere's will receive by special air shipment a barrel of 1985 Beaujolais from Georges Duboeuf, one of the most respected wine agents in France.

Beaujolais is an extraordinary red wine — light, captivating, and made to be enjoyed very young. Fine restaurants have developed an avid rivalry to see how soon after harvest they can bring the new Beaujolais to their patrons, and each fall, wine columnists grow eloquent over the new vintage — fruity, soft, satisfying, uncomplicated and effervescent.

Because Beaujolais is shipped in small 18-liter barrels, only 75 glasses of this delightful young wine will be available.

So plan now to join us the week of November 25 and sample this exquisite vin de l'annee, refreshing by itself or as a perfect accompaniment to our delicious French cuisine.

the ends of their phrases as the beginnings. The winds had a particularly appealing blend which carried well in this auditorium.

Mrs. Slade demonstrated her competence as both a choral and an orchestral conductor, but she seemed more at home with the chorus. While her style with the orchestra was muscular and lacking somewhat in detail, her choral work was full of contrasts and subtle shadings. One felt a closer rapport between conductor and chorus, and this dynamic was reflected in its responsiveness and musicality. Though it is undeniable that the orchestra played well, the real magic in this performance was heard in Mrs. Slade's chorus.

CONCERT NEXT MONDAY

By Colorado String Quartet. The award-winning Colorado String Quartet will be heard on Monday, November 18 at 8 p.m. in Alexander Hall, as part of the Chamber Masterworks series of the Princeton University Concerts.

Formed in 1976 as graduate Quartet-in-Residence at the University of Colorado, the Quartet has enjoyed a rapid rise in fame by winning a record number of international prizes and awards, culminating in 1983, with the Naumburg Award and First Prize at the Banff International String Quartet Competition.

The Quartet, Julie Rosenfeld and Deborah Redding, violins, Francesca Martin, viola, and Sharon Prater, cello, lives in New York City. From 1980 to 1984 the members were teaching assistants to the Juilliard String Quartet.

For its Princeton appearance, the Quartet will perform Beethoven, Quartet No. 6 in B Flat Major, Opus 18; Berg, Quartet, Opus 3; and Schumann, Quartet No. 3 in A Major, Opus 41.

The Yale group will open the program with the Brahms motet "Es ist das Heil," continue with Lotti's "Crucifixus," the "Six Chansons" of Paul Hindemith and conclude its first group with Fenno Heath's own composition, "Death Be Not Proud."

Princeton will respond with the Brahms motet "Warum ist das Licht gegeben," the Schutz motet, "Das Vaterunser," and finish its first group with the "Four Slovak Folksongs" by Bela Bartok.

Yale's second group will include Fenno Heath's arrangements of "On my journey home," "Didn't my Lord deliver Daniel," and "My Lord what a morning," as well as his rearrangement for mixed chorus of "Shenandoah," originally arranged for male chorus by Marshall Bartholomew. William Henry Smith's "Ride the chariot" and the Yale Football Medley will conclude the Yale program.

Princeton will respond with the "London Street Cries" by Orlando Gibbons, the spirituals "Listen to the lambs" and "Little innocent lamb," the Mexican folksong "Las golondrinas," the Cuban pregon "El frutero" and the Princeton Football Medley. AMATEURS TO MEET

To Sing Williams Work. The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will meet Sunday at 4 in the Unitarian Church on Cherry Hill Road. The Amateurs will sing through Vaughan Williams' Dona nobis pacem with orchestra and chorus under the direction of Frederic Ford, the conductor of the Rutgers University Chorus. Anne Ackley, soprano, and William Riley, baritone, will be the soloists.

Ms. Ackley is a member of the voice faculty at Westminster Choir College and has sung extensively in the area, including the role of Donna Elvira in the June Opera Festival. Mr. Riley is also a member of the Westminster voice faculty and is a regional finalist of the Metropolitan Opera Auditions.

Interested singers in the area are invited to participate — for the fun of it. This is not a performance. There is a modest charge for non-members to cover the cost of refreshments and music scores.

Dona nobis pacem has only had one other reading (some years ago) by the Amateurs. The work — a very strong anti-war statement — was written in 1936 when the composer was 64, on poems of Walt Whitman.

CELLIST TO PLAY

At Peddie School. Judy Tsui, a cellist and Princeton High School student, will give a recital Friday at the Peddie School in Hightstown.

Miss Tsui has been studying for the past six years at the Juilliard School of Music, Pre-College Division, and is presently in the Pre-College Orchestra. A member of the Princeton High School Orchestra, she is also a member of the Greater Princeton Youth Orchestra (formerly the Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra) and principal cellist for the past three years. She won the orchestra's concerto competition this year, and last summer she held a full scholarship to study with the Congress of Strings at the University of Houston.

Miss Tsui is a National Merit Scholar. She will be accompanied by Tim Acito, a Peddie School senior, on the piano.

OPEN REHEARSAL SET

By Chamber Symphony. The Chamber Symphony of Princeton, led by Portia Sonnenfeld, will present a free public rehearsal of a new work, Chamber Symphony, by Reynold Simpson, on Friday, November 8, at Woolworth Center, Princeton University, at 8:30 p.m. The public rehearsal is in observance of American Music Week.

Reynold Simpson, currently a graduate student of music at Princeton University, has studied with Milton Babbitt and Elliott Carter at Juilliard. While at Juilliard, he was the recipient of the Irving Berlin Fellowship in composition and received the Alexandre Oretchanicoff Prize in Composition.

For further information, call 921-2879.

SWISS ORCHESTRA DUE

At Rutgers. The Orchestre de la Suisse Romande, one of the world's most distinguished orchestras will perform at Rutgers University on Tuesday.

Armin Jordan, the OSR's music director, will conduct. Pianist Horacio Gutierrez will be guest soloist, joining the orchestra for a performance of Mozart's Concerto No. 23 in A major, K. 488. The orchestra will also perform Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun by Debussy, La Peri by Paul Dukas and the second suite from Bacchus et Ariane by Albert Roussel.

The program, which begins at 8 p.m. in the College Avenue Gymnasium, is the second in this year's major concert series at New Jersey's State University.

The OSR was founded in 1918 by Ernest Ansermet to endow the French-speaking part of Switzerland, the "Suisse romande," with a permanent symphony orchestra based in Geneva. In addition to its concert seasons in Geneva and Lausanne, the OSR is the orchestra of the Grand Theatre de Geneve and of the Swiss radio and television network.

Tickets range in price from $8 to $17, with discounts for senior citizens, Rutgers alumni, students, faculty and staff. Tickets are available from the Concert Box Office, Rutgers University Arts Services, 358 George Street, New Brunswick, 08903; telephone (201) 932-7511 between 12:30 and 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Tickets will also be sold at the gymnasium the evening of the concert.

We Pioneered a Profession

AFTER

In 1967 we displayed photographs of our clientelle to introduce Mens' Hairstyling and, of course, were quickly discovered by women. A year later, by popular demand, we became the first Unisex Hairstyling Studio in New Jersey. Eventually, the State of New Jersey invited us to assist in formulating a new 'Hair' profession by homogonizing both state boards governing Barbers and Beauticians.

We've spawned over fifty Unisex Salons, successfully owned and operated by former Princetonian employees. We've won awards ... been called 'unique' by the Princeton Historical Fact Book and identified as "pioneers in the hair profession" by the New York Times.

We're professionally consistent ... not pretentious or expensive. Make an appointment and discover why we remain the most popular hairstyling studios in our communities.

Tigers' Fine Beginning Turns Sour in 31-21 Loss to Penn, But Rogerson and Team Still Have Plenty to Aim for in '85

Yes, this one hurt.

But as the Princeton football team works at picking up the pieces from its heartbreaking 31-21 loss to Pennsylvania last Saturday, there are positive things as well as the negative to consider.

For 27 glorious minutes in Franklin Field, Tiger fans were treated to the kind of football they have not witnessed since the 1960's. With a share of the Ivy title at stake, Princeton played an almost perfect game for two quarters against a superb Penn team, beating the Quakers on both sides of the ball.

SPORTS

However, when Penn managed to turn the momentum, and ultimately the game, in its favor, and walked off the field still undefeated in league competition, Princeton was saddled with an extremely tough loss to swallow. The bigger the game, the keener the disappointment that follows a defeat.

The disappointment also stems from the fact that, after playing such a superlative first half, the Tigers seemed so helpless on offense and defense in the final 30 minutes. They never came close to scoring another point, and allowed the Quakers 24.

Thus, the final outcome must be viewed with mixed emotions. At least, this team was in a position to play a big game after several seasons of mediocrity. And when the moment presented itself the Tigers were ready to play inspired football at the start, and came close to an upset. A 35-0 defeat would have been much more disheartening.

Coach Ron Rogerson has put together a team that can play on equal terms with the best in the league for at least one half. His players came up short this time, but if they can summon the determination to put in four solid quarters, Rogerson will have a winner.

He still has plenty to shoot for this season, and if he's on target the bitter memories of the Penn game will soften. Old Nassau may have been knocked from the Ivy race with its second defeat, but there is a little matter of the Big Three Championship to be settled. A winning record is still possible.

Three Palmer Stadium contests remain, William & Mary, Yale and Cornell. Victories in all three would give the Orange and Black a 6-4 mark. Given the pre-season outlook, Rogerson would gain the tag of miracle-worker.

A victory next week over W&M, a strong non-league opponent, might be out of reach for Princeton, as the Lehigh and Colgate contests were. But Yale and Cornell are another matter.

Triumphs there would produce a creditable 5-5 record, a Big Three championship, and an upbeat finish to a season for the first time in four years.

That's a pretty good measure of success for a program that has had precious little to crow about since 1969.

The "Tenth" Game. Since 1980 when the Ivy League went to a 10-game schedule, Princeton has had mixed success with the non-league opponents it has played between the Penn and Yale contests. At times it has seemed like an interruption in the schedule, forcing the Tigers to shift their focus temporarily from league competition.

The Orange and Black split two contests with Maine, winning in 1980, but losing in '81. It then split a two-game series with Lafayette, losing in 1982, and winning in 1983. Last year it reverted to a nine-game schedule.

William & Mary is similar to the previous two non-league opponents the Tigers have faced this year. It has a record-setting quarterback in Stan Yagiello, who has rolled up some impressive statistics this year in nine games. He has completed 195 of 333 passes for 2,471 yards and 16 touchdowns. That's a career for many quarterbacks. His favorite target is wide receiver Ron Gillam, with 57 receptions for 912 yards and 16 touchdowns.

The Tribe moves the ball through the air most of the time; its running attack, featuring no one with outstanding ability, functions mainly to give Yagiello a rest every now and then.

The defense has given up points in bunches this season, and would appear vulnerable to a passer of Doug Butler's ability, but W&M has faced another demanding schedule, one of the toughest of all Division I-AA teams. The previous two years it has finished 6-5.

In 1985 its record is 5-4, and includes losses to three Division I-A opponents, Wake Forest, Temple and Virginia Tech, in addition to a 39-38 loss to VMI. Victories have come against Norfolk State, James Madison, Harvard, 21-14, Delaware, and last week against Lehigh.

The Tribe won another high-scoring affair against the Engineers, pulling out a 31-29 triumph.

Rogerson's chief task this week will be to get his players motivated again after the Penn loss, two weeks before the Yale game, against a non-league opponent. He doesn't even have a long series rivalry to help him.

Princeton and William & Mary have played just once, way back in 1927, with the Tigers winning 35-7. He's got one small advantage on his side: the Tribe will be playing its sixth consecutive game on the road, before heading home for its season finale against Richmond.

Motivation may play a big part in this contest for both teams.

PBS Pulls the Plug

For Princeton fans who chose to watch Saturday's Penn contest on Channels 12 or 13, it probably wasn't the end of the world to miss the last 4:41 minutes.

But Public Television is flirting with disaster, regardless of what its contract says, when it pulls the plug at 4 pm on its Ivy Game of the Week. Princeton had no last-minute heroics to reverse the 31-21 deficit, but some day a game may be decided after PBS goes off the air.

This was the first time in its two-year history of televising league games that PBS has had to sign off before the game ended. "I hope we don't have a 'Heidi' game," a worried Marty Glickman told his audience. He was referring to the infamous decision by NBC in 1968 to cut away from a Jets-Raiders contest in the closing minutes to show the movie, "Heidi."

To avoid such an occurrence, why not start the Ivy Game of the Week 23 minutes earlier with a 12:45 kickoff? It might save a lot of embarrassment later on.

Can you imagine the uproar if PBS had been televising either the 1981 Princeton-Yale game, or the 1984 contest between the two, and had signed off with 4:41 remaining? Both ran longer than three hours, but the outcome was not determined until less than a minute remained.

PENN PUSHED TO LIMIT

But Quakers Pass the Test.

The rumors and whisperings continue in Ivy circles that Penn is admitting a different kind of football player than the rest of the Ivy schools. He's on a higher plane athletically, and a lower one academically.

It may just be sour grapes, because of the Quakers sudden rise to prominence in league play and their three straight Ivy titles, or it may be a legitimate criticism. Proof will never be forthcoming from the classroom to resolve the academic question, but the athletic ability is answered convincingly week after week on the football field.

Down by 21-0 late in the second period, this 6-1 Penn team created the break it needed, took quick advantage before halftime to swing the momentum its way and then dominated the final two periods.

In doing so it won its 13th consecutive Ivy contest, tying the league record held by Princeton and Yale. Only Harvard now has a realistic chance of spoiling the Quakers' bid for another undefeated league season.

To Rogerson's credit the favored (by eight points) Red and Blue was caught totally off guard by Princeton's explosive start. The Tiger offense clicked on the ground and through the air, while the defense stuffed Penn's attack on one play after another.

After stalling the first two times they had the ball, the Tigers suddenly began to open big holes in the Penn line midway through the first quarter. Craig Fitchett, Chris Ratliff and Butch Climmons took turns gaining good yardage. Fitchett covered the final eight on a 75-yard drive, that looked like a textbook application of how to run the Wing-T.

Before the quarter ended, the Tigers struck again, this time in just two plays when Doug Butler fired a perfect pass to Ted Fire, who had slipped behind the Penn secondary. The play covered 44 yards and the Orange and Black owned a 14-0 lead.

It became 21-0 with 6:23 left in the half, when Climmons caught a five-yard pass from

Here's a surprising fact ... Of all the men who've ever won the Heisman Trophy as the best college football player in the nation, only ONE ever became a head coach in college football ... The only one is John Crow, who won the Heisman at Texas A&M in 1957, and later became head coach at Northeast Lousiana University.

Butler to cap a 54-yard drive in 11 plays. The final nail had not quite been driven into Penn's coffin, but with time running out in the half, the Tigers appeared ready to do the job.

Rolling again toward the Quakers' end zone, Princeton moved from its 40 yard line to the Penn 27. Then came the play that revived the Red and Blue.

Doug Hewlitt intercepted Butler's pass on the Penn 20 with 2:30 left. Quarterback Jim Crocicchia woke up his offense with six consecutive completed passes; the last, a 12-yarder to Brent Novoselsky, not only gave the Red and Blue its first touchdown but a big lift in the locker room at halftime.

The scoreboard still showed the Tigers ahead, 21-7, but Rogerson was well aware how deceiving that was. "I told the guys at halftime it was 0-0 as far as I was concerned. I told them we were playing a hell of a football team."

———

Indeed they were, and to the delight of a Homecoming Crowd of 33,479, Penn demonstrated just what a helluva team it was. The Tiger offense never got past the Penn 38 in the final two periods. It had only one sustained drive, but when that ended there, midway through the third period, Princeton never threatened again.

"They really surprised us in the beginning," commented Penn's fine defensive tackle Tom Gilmore. "In the first half we were trying to outsmart them, but in the second half we just went back to basics and shot them down."

Meanwhile the Penn offense which had been outgained 283 to 122 yards in the first half, wasted no time in the second period. Taking the second half kickoff, the Quakers marched 74 yards in 10 plays to cut the deficit to 21-14.

Princeton had its best shot after that, but failed, on a third and four from the Penn 38, and then came the play which really sealed the Tigers' fate. Rob DiGiacomo's punt hit at the 10 but took a Penn bounce upfield.

It was touched by a Princeton player, but not downed, allowing Penn's Chris Flynn to catch the Tigers napping. He scooped up the ball and ran 79 yards down the sideline for the tying score. Until the referee blows his whistle, the receiving team can attempt to advance the ball at its own risk

Penn finally took a 24-21 lead on a 29-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter, and added its final score with five minutes left when two Princeton defenders, Jim Anderson and Sean Brennan collided, allowing the Penn receiver to catch a 20-yard TD pass from Crocicchia.

The defeat can not take away the fine balanced attack put together by the Tigers against one of the league's best defenses. Princeton gained 191 yards on the ground and 207 through the air, as Butler completed 16 of 27 tosses. They outgained the Quakers in total yards 398 to 329.

Penalties continue to be a problem. Fourteen were called against the Orange and Black, costing it 92 yards.

But overall the spirit and determination, although they could not hold up for four quarters, still were much in evidence. The team should be able to hold on to this spirit and provide a happy ending to this season.

PHS IS PRE-EMINENT

In Cross Country. Like some Colossus of Rhodes, Princeton High stands astride the cross-country world — the world that embraces Mercer County.

PHS became the first school since 1979 — when Steinert swept — to win both the boys and girls titles in the annual Mercer County meet held Friday at the Washington Crossing 3.1 mile course.

The PHS boys relied on their superior depth, finishing 2-5-7-9-22 to oust defending champion Trenton High 45 to 58. Lawrenceville was a distant third with 91 points among the competing 15 teams.

The PHS girls, led by their star Eva Klohnen, were even more dominating. They stopped defending champion Notre Dame by a lopsided 19-46 margin. Lawrence finished third at 73 among the six-team field, which was reduced by one when Trenton was disqualified for illegally entering eight girls.

Klohnen ran her fastest race of the year. She was timed in 18:12 to defeat teammate and runner-up Karin Swartz by 55 seconds. The girls captured the first three places, fifth and eighth to dominate.

Basking in the twin triumph was fifth-year PHS coach Tom McMorrow. "This is our year and I'm going to enjoy every minute of it," said McMorrow.

Last year, PHS felt it would be a strong contender for county honors, but the boys finished fifth and the girls were a disappointing third out of four teams.

Best for McVey-Finney. For the boys, Nathaniel McVey-Finney fashioned a standout performance when he sliced 24 seconds off his previous best time to finish the course in 16:09 — 13 seconds behind Trenton's undefeated Tim Blake who ran a 15:56.

Hightstown's Phil Schatz was third and Paul Jones of Trenton fourth, but PHS won the event by bunching Tony Fernandez (16:28) at fifth place, John Nyhan (16:34) seventh and Sean Nyhan (16:37) ninth. Sophomore John Clark came in 22nd with a 17:03.

CATCH ME IF YOU CAN: Pingry halfback Torsdan Poon takes advantage of some missed tackles by Hun (Pete Van Vranken 64 on the ground and Chris Cane 61) and breaks loose for a 46-yard TD run in second period against Hun. Visiting Bears went on to post a 27-6 victory.

"They were hungry for the win and it showed," commented McMorrow.

Klohnen led the girls to their first county team title ever. A senior who transferred to PHS from West Germany her sophomore year, Klohnen prefers to run the 800 meter, but has run the 1600 and 3200 distance events for the PHS winter and spring track teams. Her experience in the longer distances paid off this year.

Last year, Klohnen finished second in the county meet to Beth Starr of Lawrence. This year, Starr was a distant 12th, finishing in 20:58.

Placing third for the Little Tigers behind Klohnen and Swartz was Sandra Tignor who was clocked in 19:28. Susan Gray was fifth (20:06) and Sarah Doig eighth in 20:26.

McMorrow summed up the day's achievements by observing that it is one thing to win dual meets (PHS is undefeated in dual competition this fall), but it is quite something else to win when every team is competing.

FINAL GAME SATURDAY

For Hun Football Team. This has not been a good year for the Hun football team, but some of the sting could be taken out if the Raiders can win their last game. That is the one remembered the longest.

Both Hun and Admiral Farragut, its final opponent, have won two games. The Middies defeated Peddie, 12-7, in their last start, while Hun was bowing to Pingry, 27-6, on Friday. The game will be played on the Future Admirals' field in Toms River, starting at 2.

"I know they are big. They have quite a few PGs on their team," said Hun coach Bill Quirk of Farragut. "That will give them a size difference.

"All the seniors on the squad will be up for it," Quirk continued.

"That was when Salasko (Hunquarterback Bob Salasko) had his big debut two years ago. We put him in at quarterback for the first time and it was freezing. It's never warm down there with the wind coming off the ocean. I'm sure he'll remember it.

"We're going to pull out all the stops," added Quirk.

Pingry Takes Lead. Visiting Pingry scored on the last play of the first period when its standdout quarterback Marc Lalley connected on a 46-yard pass to wingback Adam Kurtz, as Kurtz slipped free from Jeff Hilton, the Hun defender on the play.

Hun threatened itself in the first period, but a long run by Salasko was nullified by a motion penalty. "We're our own worst enemy; we stop ourselves. It's been that way all season," said Quirk. "I think its mainly a lack of experience."

The Bears upped the score to 14-0 in the second period when halfback Torsdon Poon bolted straight up the middle, shedding tackles en route to a 46-yard run. Pete Pence added his second extra point.

The turning point in the game came just before the end of the half. With less than a minute to play, Hun was driving and appeared to have scored when Salasko connected on a pass to Hilton in the end zone.

Hun, unfortunately, reverted to being its own worst enemy again It was guilty of not one but two penalties on the play, which erased the TD: five men in the backfield and illegal motion

"That hurt us," agreed Quirk "I think if we had gone into the half 14-7 — it could have been 14-14 — it would have been a different ball game. I felt sorry for Hilton; he was so excited "

The Big Blue went on to cement its sixth win in eight outings by scoring again in the third period on a one-yard run, and again in the final period on Lalley's 28-yard scamper. Hun averted a shutout when Salasko's one-yard run capped a Hun drive in the closing minutes of the game.

"I wasn't displeased with the game," said Quirk. "I saw some good things out there." He added he was particularly pleased with Salasko's 7-for-17 passing.

"He has a strong arm and has a tendency to throw too hard so we've been working on a softer touch," commented Quirk.

"He probably had his best completion game all year," continued Quirk. "In Friday's game he proved he can run and throw."

PHS VS. STEINERT

In Football Saturday. Following an open date in its schedule last week, the Princeton High School football team will resume action Saturday when it opposes Steinert, a Colonial Valley Division foe, at 1:30 at Steinert.

After six games, the Little Tigers are all even at 3-3, and in third place in the Valley Division of the Colonial Valley Conference behind Lawrence (5-2) and West Windsor (4-2).

In its last start, Steinert had to rely on a last-period touchdown to come from behind and defeat winless Nottingham, 20-14. PHS ran over Nottingham, 42-8, earlier this season, but as PHS coach Bill Cirullo has found out, comparative scores mean little.

Princeton High's final Valley League contest will come the following week when it meets West Windsor, which almost upset unbeaten, and previously unscored upon, Trenton High THS scored in the last period to eke out a 20-18 victory

Trenton will be Princeton's final opponent of the season.

PREP SEMIFINALS NEXT

For PDS Field Hockey. Weather permitting, the Princeton Day field hockey team was scheduled to continue play this past Tuesday in its quest for another NJISAA title.

The defending champion Panthers were to play Oak Knoll in the semi-final round, with the finals scheduled for this Thursday at a neutral site. Possible opponents in the finals include either Montclair or Dwight, both of whom PDS has beaten.

As a matter of fact, Princeton Day is not only unbeaten, but unscored upon in the prep ranks. Last Thursday, it knocked off Neumann Prep, 3-0, in the opening round of the tournament.

First half goals by Catherine Barone and Jamie Mayer, and a tally by Betsy Jaffee in the final 30 minutes led PDS over NP. Shana Fineburg and Stephanie Richman had assists in the first half, and Barone picked up one on Jaffee's goal. Elise DeRochi was called upon to make just one save.

Semis In Soccer, Too. The PDS girls' soccer team, now 8-6, also finds itself in the semi-finals of its tournament, but its path to the finals will be more difficult. The Panthers must defeat Pingry on its field Wednesday to reach Friday's championship game at a neutral site. PDS has already lost to Pingry, 3-0, this year.

The Blue and White advanced to the semis with a 4-1 first-round triumph over Mt. St Dominic. The victory wasn't quite as easy as it might seem; the visitors scored early in the first period, putting PDS behind, 1-0.

However, Carol Trippitelli's superb direct kick into the upper corner of the goal knotted the score at one apiece. Thereafter, Dina Johnson put the home team ahead, 2-1, and Alicia Collins and Becca Sugerman added insurance tallies. Alex Ufford had nine saves.

Earlier in the week, Peddie dealt the Panthers a tough 2-1 loss with a goal 8:44 into the fourth quarter. PDS clung to a 1-0 lead on a first period goal by Johnson and made it stand up to the third period when the home team tied the score. Ufford had 16 saves.

PHS NET TEAM REPEATS

As League Champions. In defeating Hopewell Valley and Lawrence last week in its final two matches, the Princeton High School girls tennis team repeated as champions of the Valley Division of the Colonial Valley Conference. The Little Tigers ended with a 15-1 league record and were 15-3 overall.

PHS defeated Hopewell Valley, 4-1, and then ended with a 3-2 victory Friday over Lawrence.

Against Lawrence, PHS won the third singles, where Sara Pickens triumphed, 6-3, 6-3, and both doubles matches, for its three points. In the first doubles, Lulu Bradford and Kathy Smith won, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, in the match's only three-setter, and Barbara Goida and Liz Ignat won, 6-1, 6-3.

Princeton's number one singles player Cindy Bailey, the only loser in the match with Hopewell, also bowed to the Cardinals' fine top player, Sandra Huang, 1-6, 0-6. Lawrence's Cindy Smith stopped Gail Ellis, 7-6, 6-1, in the second singles

---

PHS coach Bill Humes loses three starting players through graduation: Bailey, Ellis and Smith.

He has, however, a large squad from which to build next year's team and Humes admitted he "has a good start for next year. Maybe a couple of new kids will come in, too," he added "You always hope for that."

Most teams would probably sell their tennis souls for a 15-3 record and a league title. But measured by the standards followed by PHS, which began the season as the defending Group 3 state champion, it was not an outstanding season.

More state trophies will certainly be in the minds of the 1986 team.

PHS GIRLS WIN, TIE

In Field Hockey. Gearing up for the approaching state tournament competition, the Princeton High field hockey team continues to play unevenly.

On Friday, the Little Tigers shut the door on Stuart Country Day School, 3-0, paced by a pair of goals by veteran Aileen Causing and one by co-captain Amy Kershaw. The win was the eighth for PHS while the loss was the seventh for Stuart, which has one win and three ties in 11 games.

Earlier in the week, Princeton and Peddie (4-7-2) battled to a scoreless tie.

Both goalies, Caylyn Tobin for PHS and Dawn Peoples for Peddie, were infrequently tested as each was credited with three saves.

PHS is scheduled to end its regular season this Wednesday at home against Lawrence

Tournament Time for PHS

The Princeton High School field hockey team, the lone Little Tiger team to qualify for state tournament competition, will begin defense of its Group 3 state championship on Friday when it will play an opening round game against North Hunterdon.

end their seasons this week.

Both have final games this Wednesday against Lawrence, the boys away and the girls at home at 3:30.

In two games last week, the PHS boys squad split, losing to Hun, 2-0, and then coming back to nip McCorristin, 2-1, the following day for its third win of the season. Jamie Womack scored both goals for PHS in the first half, Brian Trelstad assisting on one.

The PHS girls upped their record to 8-9-1 with a 4-0 shutout Thursday of visiting McCorristin.

Princeton's tri-captains accounted for all the scoring, as Fiona Little netted two goals and Booie Lockwood and Jenny Howarth one each. PHS outshot the losers, 34-2.

Hun has final games against St. Benedict's this Wednesday at home and at Wardlaw on Thursday. Saturday's scheduled contest with Ewing was erased because the Blue Devils were competing in the final round of the Mercer County Tournament.

In the Raiders' win over PHS, Hun's high-scoring Deonte Monyoukaye scored in the second period and teammate Dan Blank added an insurance tally in the third. PHS goalie Dave Gross had 12 saves.

PDS 11 ENDS 4-4

With Win in Final Game. In its final game of the season, the Princeton Day football team finally put it all together and beat Morristown-Beard, 26-7. The victory enabled the Panthers to equal last year's 4-4 record.

That is no small accomplishment considering the personnel Jim Walker had to work with in his eighth season as head coach. The 1985 team had to rely on much younger and inexperienced players than last fall's veteran squad, which was dominated by a solid group of seniors.

This Panther 11 had its troubles at times, but last Friday, it was determined to end on a positive note and it showed. Not long after the opening kickoff, the Blue and White recovered an MB fumble, and wasted no time taking advantage of the turnover. Quarterback Tim Howard found Greg Heins wide open for a 30-yard touchdown pass. A pass to Chris Alexander for the conversion gave PDS an 8-0 lead.

Not long after that, the defense had a chance to shine when it stopped the visitors on four plays inside the Panthers' 10-yard line. In the second period, PDS struck again to raise its lead to 14-0.

Actually, it struck twice, but only one counted. A holding penalty nullified Scott Haveson's 75-yard scoring run around left end, so Princeton Day had to try again. On the next play Howard again found Heins behind the MB secondary and the two combined on an 85-yard touchdown pass.

The PDS defense again held on four downs inside its own 10, but in the third period MB broke through and scored on a one-yard run, making the score 14-7. There were some anxious moments thereafter, until two fourth-period Princeton Day scores finally put the game on ice.

The first came when Howard hit Haveson with a six-yard scoring pass, and the last after an interception gave PDS the ball deep in MB territory. Alexander took the ball over from the one.

In the final game of his PDS career, Howard had a fine afternoon, connecting on 10 of 18 passes for 205 yards. Heins also had a good day with four receptions for 136 yards. Alexander caught four for 60.

Defensively, linebacker Jon Bylin led the team with 15 tackles, nose guard Tim Karcher had 11, and tackle Alan Howard had 10.

HAVESON HEADS FOR SIX: Princeton Day's Scott Haveson hauled in a short pass from quarterback Tim Howard and outraced a Morristown-Beard defender to the end zone last Friday for the Panthers' third touchdown in a 26-7 triumph. (Craig Stuart photo)

PDS loses its entire starting backfield, Howard, Alexander and Haveson, plus Heins, Karcher, Andrew Bushnell and David Kaiser. But Walker had several freshmen and sophomores plugging gaps on the line and he'll have more experienced players returning next fall than he did this past September.

PHS MONDAY SPORTS

2 Wins, 2 Losses. In sports events on Monday, both the Princeton High boys and girls soccer teams lost while the field hockey and cross country teams won.

Both soccer losses were shutouts at the hands of West Windsor. The boys were blanked, 7-0, the victim of a five-goal third period by the Pirates, who breezed to their eleventh win in fifteen games.

The 3-0 loss suffered by the girls left the Little Tigers with an 8-10-1 record. With just Wednesday's finale with Lawrence remaining, it means they will fall short of their goal of a .500 record.

Both PHS goalie Saskia Webber and her West Windsor counterpart, Melissa Turner, had eleven saves. With the win, WW almost duplicated Princeton's record with a 7-10-1 log.

In field hockey, also opposite West Windsor, PHS got two first-half goals from Karen Killner and Susan Elliott and ended with a 3-0 victory when veteran Amy Kershaw scored in the second half. Kershaw, Aileen Causing and Liz Hewson assisted on the three goals.

PHS increased its record to 9-6-1 with the win and has one more regular season contest to play.

Perfect X-Country Season. The PHS boys cross country team ended its regular season with a perfect 11-0 record when it defeated Steinert, 23-32.

Princeton's Nathaniel McVey-Finney was first across the line on Steinerts' 3.25 course in 17:04. The Spartans' Matt O'Brien was second, four seconds behind with 17:08, but PHS took the next two places: Andrew Fernandez, 17:28, and Sean Nyhan, 17:32. John Clark and John Nyhan finished seventh and eighth for the victorious Little Tigers, who will compete next in the State Sectionals on Saturday.

SOCCER SEASON ENDS

For PDS Boys. The Princeton Day boys' soccer team won't take the field again for another 10 months, but one of next season's goals must be firmly fixed in the minds of those players who'll be returning.

If the Panthers accomplish nothing else next year, they'll be looking to beat Pennington to gain revenge for two heartbreaking 1-0 losses in the space of three days, plus an 8-3 defeat earlier in the season. The second one, coming this past Monday, knocked the Blue and White out of the Prep Tournament, and ended its season. PDS finished smack on the .500 mark with a 7-7-2 record.

Last Friday in the regular season meeting, Pennington got a third period goal to win, 1-0. In Monday's tournament contest, PDS played the Raiders even all the way to the last 90 seconds, with goalie John DeRochi making several superb saves.

DeRochi made one more on a hard shot by Brian Parker, but the rebound bounced over to an unguarded Dave Huchler, who booted home the winning goal with 1:28 remaining

MIKE'S TIES FOR FIRST

In Women's Soccer League. By blanking the previously undefeated Hibernians, 1-0, last week in their showdown meeting, Mike's Tavern has tied for first place in the Mercer County Women's Soccer League.

Both Mike's and Hibernians are 8-1, while Joe's Mill is 5-3. The remaining four teams in the league — 3 Seasons, Trentypo, G.R. Murray Insurance and C.J.S. — are all below .500.

In its next start, Mike's will oppose Trentypo on Sunday at 12 noon at Mercer County Park.

Mike's had won five straight going into its contest with Hibernians, its only loss a 6-2 decision to Hibernians earlier in the season.

Three minutes into the rematch last week, Mike's right wing Debbie Smyth crossed the ball in front of the net.

As the Hiberian goalie came out and tried to catch the ball, she could not control it and Carol Whitehouse outfought her for it and drove the loose ball into the net for the game's only score.

Mike's goalie, Liz Kilcoyne, had 19 saves in recording her third shutout of the season.

The key to victory, according to Mike's head coach Mike Smyth, was defense and he cited the fine play of Nancy Balmer-Csira, Pattie Zollner, Julie Converse and Kathie Hullfish.

"The Hibernians came into the game averaging five goals a game," commented Smyth. "They have great forwards, especially Elyse Eichmann-Dolan who was scoring three goals a game. We knew we had to stop her this time, if we were going to win."

Smyth's strategy was to put Jean Ruppert on Eichmann-Dolan and shadow her wherever she went on the field. It paid off because the Hibernians were unable to get the ball very often to their high-scoring forward and when they did, Ruppert was there to break up the play.

"Jean had her covered like a blanket and our defense did the job on the rest of the Hibernians," continued Smyth. "It was a great win."

Earlier in the week, Mike's cruised past winless C.J.S., 8-2, as Smyth and Donna Severino scored two goals each.

Patty Severino, Annette Howard, Wendy Sneddon and Balmer-Csira each contributed one goal for the victors.

PYS WINS AGAIN

In Midget Football. Last week's game in the Princeton Midget Football League was a repeat of the first week's.

Princeton Youth Sports, again led by Anthony White, routed United Jersey Bank, 38-0. Young scored three times on runs of 38, 68 and 22 yards and added a fourth touchdown on a 52-yard return of an intercepted pass. A 48-yard payoff pass from Don DiDonato to Ed McEwen, and Dan Petrecca's 21-yard TD run, accounted for the victors' other two scores.

The PYS defense was led by Brian Williams, Marquis Johnson, Christian Herron, John Medinski, Ted Lewis, Paul Proccacino, Matt Curran and Jeff Tabor.

The Bank's offensive performers were running backs Shawn Miller, Scott Petrone and Scott Collins, quarterback Dan Wilson and receivers Kobie Schultz, Nick Sferra and Keith Esposito. On defense: Angus Guberman, Ernest Jean-Louis, Chris Healy, Markuise Bullock, Greg Horowitz, Steve Lutkowski, John Rak and Chad Wilson.

The two teams, the only two in the Midget League this season, play each other every Saturday.

FIRST MEET SATURDAY

For YW Gymnastics Team. The Princeton YWCA Pirouettes Gymnastics team will hold its first home meet of the season on Saturday at 1 against the Germantown Y in the YMCA building on Paul Robeson Place.

The girls will compete on the bars, beam, floor and vault in individual and all-round categories. Class 3 and Class 4 gymnasts will perform the new compulsory routines.

The event is open to the public without charge and refreshments will be available.

WINNER AND RUNNER-UP: Hun School's Nicole Arendt (right) won the NJISAA state prep tennis singles Sunday, defeating Princeton Day's Rachel Stark, 6-3, 6-1. Hun captured the Prep B team title, while PDS finished fourth in Prep A competition.
